SUBJECT: Fiscal Year 2018 Sexual Assault Report

- In fiscal year 2018 (FY18), the Army continued to see an increase in the number of sexual assaults reported: 5.5 reports of sexual assault per 1,000 Soldiers, an increase from the FY17 rate of 4.7 per 1,000 Soldiers. The sustained increase in the number of reports is a positive indicator of victim confidence in their chain of command, victim advocacy and response services, Army criminal investigation offices, and appropriate accountability for subjects.
- The attached sexual assault report highlights attributes of the Army's commitment to create incidents of sexual harassment and assault. For FY18, these highlights include:
  - Piloting "Mind's Eye 2," as the Army's primary prevention initiative that helps leaders recognize challenges and increase individuals' empathy and awareness of biases;
  - Employing a highly qualified expert to apply research-based concepts to the Army's sexual assault prevention strategy;
  - Assigning experienced judge advocates as newly established regional managers for the special victims' counsel program;
  - Continuing to introduce state-of-the-art investigative resources to enhance the detection of forensic evidence at crime scenes; and
  - Streamlining the processing of line-of-duty determinations for Army Reserve Soldiers who were victims of sexual assault while on active duty.
- The Army's actions and future plans for a comprehensive sexual assault prevention strategy focus on: (1) leaders creating and maintaining positive command climates; and (2) developing research-based strategies to address the relationship between sexual harassment and sexual assault, patterns of offender behaviors, and methods to improve healthy relationships.

Executive Summary: Fiscal Year 2018 Annual Report on Sexual Assault in the Military (U.S. ARMY)

The U.S. Army is committed to enhancing readiness by preventing sexual assault, sexual harassment, and associated retaliatory behaviors and by providing comprehensive response capabilities through its Sexual Harassment/Assault Response and Prevention (SHARP) program. To accomplish this commitment, Army leaders must establish a culture of dignity and respect that results in positive command climates in which the behaviors and attitudes that lead to sexual misconduct are rare and victims feel safe to report misconduct without fear of retaliation. The vast majority of Soldiers serve honorably, meeting the standards embodied in the Army Values. However, it is the unacceptable actions of a few that jeopardize unit readiness and erode the trust and confidence that the American people have in our Army. Soldiers who commit the crime of sexual assault, or fail to intervene and stop an assault, violate the Nation's trust and the trust of their fellow Soldiers. To retain the trust and confidence of the Nation, the Army embeds its efforts in a SHARP program that combines initiatives to prevent and respond to incidents of sexual assault, sexual harassment, and retaliation. This report details the operational initiatives of the Army's SHARP program and the Army's progress in preventing and responding to the crimes of sexual assault.

Mark T. Esper
23rd Secretary of the Army

In fiscal year 2018 (FY18), the Army continued to see an increase in the number of sexual assaults reported: 5.5 reports of sexual assault per 1,000 Soldiers compared to the FY17 rate of 4.7 per 1,000 Soldiers. The sustained increase in the number of reports is a positive indicator of victim confidence in their chain of command, victim advocacy and response services, Army criminal investigation offices, and appropriate accountability for offenders. In addition to an increase in victim confidence and reporting, there has been a corresponding decrease in the prevalence of sexual assault in the Army. This statistic was estimated by the most recent Department of Defense (DoD) Workplace and Gender Relations Survey of Active Duty Members (WGRA) conducted in 2016 (results of the 2018 WGRA are pending and will be included in the FY19 report).

This report describes attributes of the Army's commitment to create and maintain a climate where Soldiers not only adhere to the Army Values but embrace them, thereby reducing incidents of sexual assault. Highlights of the Army's FY18 actions include:

- Piloting "Mind's Eye 2," as the Army's primary prevention initiative that helps leaders recognize challenges and increase individuals' empathy and awareness of biases.
- Employing a highly qualified expert to apply research-based concepts to the Army's evolving sexual assault prevention strategy.
- Completing a SHARP services pilot that allows Army Civilians to make a restricted report of sexual assault.
- Introducing new state-of-the-art investigative resources to enhance the detection of forensic evidence at crime scenes.
- Assigning experienced judge advocates as newly established regional managers for the special victims' counsel (SVC) program.

- Conducting a workforce analysis to determine the number and combination of program managers, sexual assault response coordinators (SARCs), victim advocates (VAs), and trainers required to manage the SHARP program across the Army.
- Streamlining the processing of line-of-duty determinations for Army Reserve Soldiers who were victims of sexual assault while in an active duty status.

Since its inception in 2009, the Army’s SHARP program focused its efforts on five specific goals which align with the five goals of the Department of Defense Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Strategic Plan, 2017-2021:

- Goal 1 - Prevention of sexual assault.
- Goal 2 - Assistance to, and advocacy for, victims of sexual assault.
- Goal 3 - Competent and sensitive investigations of sexual assault.
- Goal 4 - Accountability for the alleged perpetrators of sexual assault.
- Goal 5 - Effective assessment of the SHARP program.

In addressing Goal 1 (Prevention), the Army continually improves its training and engagement strategies to prevent sexual assault. The Army requires SHARP training for all Soldiers and Civilians and fully integrates it into initial entry training (IET) for new Soldiers and at all levels of professional military education (PME) for officers and non-commissioned officers (NCOs). The Army also includes SHARP in specialty training for company commanders/first sergeants, recruiters, and advanced individual training (AIT) platoon sergeants to improve the SHARP knowledge of these leaders. Mandatory annual unit-level SHARP training consists of interactive presentations designed to educate Soldiers and Civilians about the importance of active bystander intervention. To improve its sexual assault prevention efforts in FY18, the Army piloted Mind’s Eye 2 to validate its effectiveness as a primary prevention initiative.

"We are all charged with setting the conditions that enforce Army standards to prevent sexual offenses and reporting them when they occur – protecting our people, protects our mission".

General Mark A. Milley
39th Chief of Staff of the Army

The Army is dedicated to victim care and response through Goal 2 (Victim Assistance and Advocacy). Army SARCs and VAs receive comprehensive training through a 2-week SHARP Foundation Course (conducted locally for collateral duty personnel) or a 7-week SARC/VA Career Course (for full-time personnel) through the Army SHARP Academy at Fort Leavenworth, KS. The Army also ensures that victims of sexual assault receive quality medical care from multidisciplinary sexual assault medical management teams located at Army military treatment facilities (MTFs). The Army trained 74 Army sexual assault medical forensic examiners (SAMFEs) through an extensive training program, increasing the pool of Army SAMFEs by 56 percent. The U.S. Army Medical Command (MEDCOM) provides at least one SAMFE at every Army MTF equipped with an emergency room.

The Army addresses Goal 3 (Investigation) by sustaining the momentum gained through improved processes and thoroughness of sexual assault investigations. The U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command (CID) joins with prosecutors, victim witness liaisons, SARCs, VAs, and other sexual assault responders to form special victim capability teams at Army installations worldwide. These teams train in the unique aspects of investigating and prosecuting sexual assault cases. The U.S. Army Military Police School continues to increase the Army's number of certified agents through an acclaimed sexual assault investigative training program.

Highlights of the Army's efforts in goal 4 (Accountability) during FY18 included enhancements to the SVC program, review of the judge advocate additional skill identifier program, and coordination between military justice and law enforcement databases. The Army made important structural changes to the SVC program, creating five geographic regions and assigning SVC regional managers who are senior judge advocates with extensive SVC experience. Stakeholders from prosecution, defense, trial judiciary, training branches, and personnel management completed a 2-year long review of the military justice additional skill identifier program to ensure that only experienced personnel fill these critical assignments. Finally, the Army Judge Advocate General's Corps and the Office of the Provost Marshal General initiated a joint information technology effort that allows military justice and law enforcement databases to conduct automated information exchanges and streamline the reporting of investigative and disposition data.

"Those crimes have no place in our Army. We are highly regarded in the eyes of the American public...and it takes constant work to maintain that reputation".

Daniel A. Dailey
15th Sergeant Major of the Army

The objective of Goal 5 (Assessment) is to measure, analyze, and assess the effectiveness of the Army's efforts related to sexual assault prevention and response. The Army collects information from multiple sources to determine the effect of its actions and initiatives on mitigating and combating sexual assault. For FY18, the Army continued to provide measures of effectiveness to Army commands and installations in support of their mitigation action plans to counter sexual assault vulnerabilities identified in their organizations. In addition, the Army piloted a staff assistance visit program designed to capture qualitative data to complement the quantitative data collected by organizational inspections.

Leaders at all levels must take an active role in the SHARP program to ensure that the Army achieves these five stated goals. Leaders must establish command climates that prevent the crime of sexual assault, take all allegations of sexual assault seriously, ensure fair and impartial investigations, treat victims with dignity and respect, and ensure that victims can report without fear of retaliation, while taking appropriate action against alleged offenders. Significant elements of the Army SHARP program include:

- A senior commander at each Army installation who has overall responsibility for SHARP program implementation and execution. As a critical element of their program execution, these leaders must conduct a monthly sexual assault review board (SARB) to provide procedural guidance and feedback on program implementation.
- Command SHARP program managers who assist commanders in executing their SHARP program and integrating sexual assault response efforts (legal, law enforcement, chaplain, and medical) above the brigade level.
- SARCs and VAs who are available 24 hours a day/7 days a week (24/7) to interact with victims of sexual assault and other response agencies to provide support in garrison and deployed environments. These SARCs and VAs also support commanders by implementing the SHARP program, conducting unit training, and assisting with command climate surveys to monitor prevention efforts.

Encouraging signs of progress in the Army include the declining prevalence of sexual assault combined with increasingly high rates of reporting. The increase in the number of reports of sexual assault is not the result of more incidents of sexual assault, but rather a growth in victim's confidence in their chain of command because of the continued emphasis placed on sexual assault prevention and response by Army leaders. Data from Army climate surveys support this observation, as an overwhelming majority of Soldiers surveyed indicated that they favorably view their unit's reporting climate and chain of command support for victims. Nevertheless, sexual assault remains an under reported crime and the Army continues to work on improving reporting climates.

Indicators of progress are a credit to committed Army leadership and the sustained resourcing of the SHARP program. The Army's actions in FY18 demonstrate a continued commitment to strong and compassionate responses to sexual assault. Each case is troubling and the Army fully investigates every alleged misconduct, follows every lead, provides support to victims, and takes available and appropriate action to hold individuals accountable. Still, the Army recognizes there is more work to do, especially in efforts to prevent sexual assaults.

This report complies with the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness memorandum, dated September 17, 2018, Data Call for the Fiscal Year 2018 Department of Defense Annual Report on Sexual Assault in the Military. This report contains:

- Details of Army actions in support of the five goals contained in the DoD SAPR Strategic Plan: 2017-2021.
- Data analysis of the Army's 2,576 unrestricted reports and the 579 restricted reports of sexual assault reported during FY18.
- A profile and brief synopsis of each sexual assault case in which there was a disposition decision in FY18.

1. Goal 1—Prevention

1.1 Summarize your efforts to achieve the Prevention goal to “institutionalize evidenced-based, informed prevention practice and policies across the Department so that all Military Service members are treated with dignity and respect, and have the knowledge, tools, and support needed to prevent sexual assaults.”

Overall Approach: What force-wide initiatives did your Military Service employ this year to reduce the occurrence of sexual assault?

Metrics for Assessing Prevention Effectiveness: What metrics are being used to assess the effectiveness of prevention efforts intended to reduce the prevalence of sexual assault? Include a discussion of the metrics used to assess your sexual assault prevention program, and how they support or supplement DoD’s core prevention metrics (i.e., prevalence and bystander intervention experience). Describe how the results of those metrics are informing prevention planning.

Institutionalize Prevention: What are your efforts to institutionalize prevention efforts throughout your Service? Where do you see your efforts being most effective and where do you see areas for additional attention?

Expanding Prevention Knowledge: What advances have you made this year to expand your Service’s knowledge of primary prevention? If applicable, how have you differentiated who receives what content?

Evidence-Based Prevention Practices: Explain your Military Service’s approach to fostering and ensuring the use of evidence-based prevention practices. What resources or support have been put in place to educate your prevention community on how to interpret research in the prevention field?

Overall Approach

The foundation of the Army’s prevention effort is its leaders, who are ultimately responsible for unit climate and culture. Army leaders must set and enforce standards that ensure a healthy command climate, setting the conditions that prevent sexual misconduct. Effective primary prevention requires commanders and leaders to design and build climates where all team members are skilled in problem identification and effective in proactive interventions that reduce all types of misconduct. Army leaders are responsible for the climates of their units and achieving trust, cohesion, and esprit de corps that requires individual self-awareness and team climate-building skills.

Army prevention initiatives to provide leaders and Soldiers with the knowledge and skills needed to combat all forms of sexual violence include:

- Mind’s Eye 2 is an interactive leadership training program focused on individual decision making. The training helps Soldiers and Civilians increase their personal connection to the Army profession and reduce negative behaviors and environments by targeting prevention at all levels. Mind’s Eye 2 is comprised of five key areas critical to supporting individual values-driven decision making and enhancing leader climate-building skills. Those areas include (1) connection, (2) problem recognition, (3) ethical decision making, (4) values-based action, and (5) effective intervention intended to increase various aspects of connection to the Army profession at the individual, unit, and enterprise level. The Army conducted an initial Mind's Eye 2 pilot in FY18, training 31 facilitators who, in turn, trained more than 900 Soldiers.

- The Army continues to refine its sexual assault prevention strategy employing a highly qualified expert (HQE) to work with the Army SHARP Academy. The HQE's work consists of research-based theories of attitude and behavior change, research findings about effective prevention programs, and predictors about what leads someone to perpetrate sexual violence. The emerging Army prevention strategy provides the context necessary for understanding primary prevention, outlines the framework that guides prevention efforts, and describes the elements that constitute a holistic prevention approach. Key aspects of the prevention strategy include leader engagement, bystander intervention, increased victim empathy, improved understanding of offenders, and collaboration with governmental and non-governmental organizations and academia.

Under the oversight of the Army SHARP program, other actions underway in Army commands to reduce the occurrence of sexual assault include:

- In addition to a continued focus on bystander intervention and physical security, U.S. Army Forces Command (FORSCOM) also has shifted its prevention dialogue to a more positive "what to do" approach from a "don't do" approach. This effort includes SHARP-themed musical concerts, which pair important prevention messages with relevant popular music.

- In FY18, the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) applied a multi-faceted approach to reduce sexual assault incidents by employing prevention methods that included increased emphasis on risk mitigation techniques, increased bystander intervention and primary prevention training, first responder training, retaliation training, and using the Emergent Leader Immersive Training Environment (ELITE) virtual exercise training.

- The U.S. Army Reserve Command (USARC) continues to employ leader education and engagement as its prominent prevention strategy.

- U.S. Army Pacific (USARPAC) collaborated with FORSCOM to create a new ELITE module focusing on the Army Civilian population.

- U.S. Army Africa (USARAF) and the U.S. Army Installation Management Command (IMCOM) collaborated with other service providers to increase awareness of how sexual violence intersects with substance abuse, suicidal behavior, domestic violence, and mental health.

- The U.S. Army Test and Evaluation Command (ATEC) incorporates five pillars of strength (physical, emotional, social, spiritual, and family) to raise the awareness and enhance the visibility of the SHARP program.

- The United States Military Academy (USMA) collaborated with EverFi to introduce their Alcohol.edu online training program to the entire Corps of Cadets. This program is the first time USMA provided formal alcohol training aimed at providing cadets with facts about alcohol to help them to make informed decisions about their drinking choices.

Metrics for Assessing Prevention Effectiveness

The Army SHARP program office provides a monthly metrics update to the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff of the Army. Those metrics focus on reporting and prevalence. The Army senior leadership identified two goals: (1) decrease prevalence by 10 percent for FY18 and FY20 and (2) increase reporting by 10 percent for FY18, FY19, and FY20. The Army exceeded the reporting goal in FY18 with an 18 percent increase. FY18 prevalence data will not be available until April 2019; however, Army sexual assault prevalence decreased 21 percent from FY14 to FY16 (37 percent for male victims and 6 percent for female victims).

Other Armywide assessment initiatives include:

- In FY18, the Army assessed the Mind's Eye 2 program to determine whether it prompted changes in Soldiers' knowledge, attitudes, perceived norms, and behavioral intentions. Preliminary assessment results show that Mind's Eye 2 participants are more empathetic towards rape survivors and feel they could intervene to prevent a sexual assault.
- The Strategic Management System (SMS) is the Army's performance management system that facilitates metric construction, data importation, and dashboard displays for Army organizations. There are approximately 26,000 individual users of the SMS within the Army. The Army SHARP program office created SHARP-SMS specifically to display SHARP data for Army units down to the brigade level. There are approximately 450 metrics and two dozen common operating pictures and customized reports available within SHARP-SMS to help Army units assess their SHARP efforts.
- Because alcohol is so prevalent in sexual assault incidents, the Institute for Defense Analysis (IDA) completed a study that examined the culture and conditions of alcohol consumption across military communities. IDA found that the primary influencer with regard to Soldiers' alcohol purchases is the convenience of the location (e.g., if an on-base store is more convenient, then Soldiers will shop there for alcohol).

Other assessment activities by subordinate Army commands include:

- Many commands, including FORSCOM, USARPAC, U.S. Army Europe (USAREUR), and U.S Army North (ARNORTH) use the SHARP-SMS to identify sexual assault trends that leaders use to increase risk awareness and refine training.
- TRADOC uses a variety of assessment tools including an initial command inspection program, focus groups, Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute (DEOMI) Organizational Climate Survey (DEOCS), Sexual Assault Review Board (SARB) best practices and lessons learned, and training evaluation surveys.
- The U.S. Army Materiel Command (AMC) tracks sexual assault incidents that do not meet the SHARP program reporting requirements, specifically within the AMC contractor workforce. This tracking allows AMC SHARP personnel to implement risk reduction strategies based on the specifics of every incident.
- In addition to command inspections, USARC uses SHARP-SMS to provide statistical analysis and trends related to sexual assault.

- The U.S. Army Space and Missile Defense Command (SMDC) tailors its face-to-face SHARP training to specific items identified through command climate surveys.
- The U.S. Army Intelligence and Security Command (INSCOM) reviews data and trends on a quarterly basis. Metrics and data include alcohol abuse, status of alleged offenders, and length of time victims are in their unit prior to the sexual assault.
- USMA used feedback from an EverFi report to assess three main areas directly tied to the effectiveness of programs in higher education: (1) institutionalizing the program, (2) implementing critical processes that support the execution of the program, and (3) addressing issues related to sexual violence, sexual harassment, hazing, and bullying.

Institutionalize Prevention

The Army works closely with the DEOMI and the DoD Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion to create curricula focused on recognizing elements of sexual violence that range from verbal and emotional abuse (sexual harassment) to sexual assault, rape, and even death. Army training and policy addresses sexual violence and informs Soldiers and leaders with intervention methods to recognize and stop behavior before it rises to the level of sexual assault.

The Army continues to be a key partner in the development of the DoD's prevention plan of action, and is currently developing an Army sexual assault prevention strategy to align with the DoD plan. The Army's current focus is the analysis of all training courses to identify any prevention gaps or opportunities that may exist. Once the analysis is complete, the Army is postured to develop additional education and training activities to advance primary prevention efforts.

Some Army initiatives include:

- ELITE SHARP Bystander Resource Assessment & Virtual Exercise (BRAVE) is a laptop training application focused on training Army junior leaders to intervene when observing behavior that could lead to incidents of sexual assault. ELITE SHARP BRAVE incorporates the University of Southern California Institute for Creative Technologies (USC-ICT) story-based scenarios and intelligent tutoring technology to create an engaging training experience.
- Prevention-focused training to all newly commissioned officers during their basic officer leader courses (BOLC) and to all newly accessed Soldiers during IET and basic combat training (BCT). All new officers receive "Got Your Back" training, which is a dynamic, audience interaction presentation presented by Catharsis Productions. The presentation draws from the intervention research by clinical psychologists and forensic consultants using scenarios where intervention stops potential sexual violence and challenges victim-blaming attitudes. Furthermore, the training identifies the key differences between healthy and unhealthy relationships.

Expanding Prevention Knowledge

The Army included primary prevention messaging in presentations and talking points in support of approximately 50 outreach engagements during FY18. As a result, the Army's messaging regarding its efforts to get to the root cause of sexual violence has reached thousands of military and non-military audiences across the Army through SHARP leader engagements. In addition, SHARP messaging on primary prevention is included in the Army News Service (ANS) and Soldier Radio and Television (SRTV) segments, especially when discussing the Mind's Eye 2. In addition, the Army SHARP program office provided talking points that included messaging on primary prevention to senior leaders to use in engagements such as the Association of the United States Army (AUSA), the National Guard Association of the United States (NGAUS), and other DoD/non-DoD venues. This information also was included in senior leader materials for engagements on Capitol Hill. The Army also shared this information with the Committee on House Administration as they worked to establish their own sexual violence prevention and response program.

The FY18 Army Profession Forum brought together senior Army general officers to discuss important topics affecting the Army, including SHARP. The Chief of Staff of the Army challenged the Army leaders in attendance to ensure that their commands were intolerant of sexual harassment and sexual assault. He communicated that the number one priority in the Army, readiness, has a direct connection to the SHARP program. The Chief of the Staff of the Army encouraged each leader to have conversations where Soldiers can openly discuss what "right looks like." During the forum, the SHARP program office presented a number of prevention initiatives, including an overview of Mind's Eye 2.

Nearly 250 SHARP program managers, SARCs, and VAs attended the FY18 SHARP Program Improvement Forum (PIF) hosted by the Army SHARP program office. Discussions during the PIF helped educate SHARP personnel on the definition of prevention, who is responsible for primary prevention, who are partners to make primary prevention programs work, and what is the composition of a primary prevention team.

The Army SHARP Academy developed a new bystander intervention training support package (TSP) for certified SHARP trainers to use when training Soldiers and Civilians to recognize and implement intervention strategies to prevent a sexual assault incident. The TSP focuses on training Soldiers to:

- Recognize the connections between sexist language, sexual harassment, hazing, and sexual assault.
- Clearly communicate the components of consent required in any sexual situation.
- Recognize the role alcohol plays in sexual assault, rape, and hazing.
- Identify inappropriate verbal and physical contact, assess tools and resources available, and intervene in situations warranting intervention.
- Apply the Army Values individually and as a team with regard to issues related to intervening in sexual harassment and sexually violent situations.

Subordinate Army commands also cited actions to expand prevention knowledge:

- In addition to annual training requirements, FORSCOM units train incoming Soldiers at replacement centers, junior leaders at local commander and first sergeants courses, and more senior level leaders prior to monthly installation SARBs.
- TRADOC implemented ELITE SHARP BRAVE to focus on training junior leaders to intervene when observing behaviors that could lead to sexual harassment or assault.
- USARPAC installations use the Commander's Ready and Resilient Council (CR2C) as an opportunity for SHARP personnel and others to help expand prevention knowledge.

- USAREUR employed health-of-the-force events to review metrics, trends, and analysis of SHARP program effectiveness.
- U.S. Army Central (ARCENT) established an “ambassador course” for junior Soldiers with a robust range of subject matter experts as guest speakers such as CID, judge advocates, and a survivor to expand the knowledge of prevention.
- USARAF SHARP personnel attend local family readiness group meetings to offer support and education to families.
- USMA established character education teams, comprised of two faculty members for each cadet company. Through their preparation to facilitate the lessons and their engagement in the discussions with cadets, the faculty deepened their own understanding of issues faced by cadets in their relationships.

Evidence-Based Prevention Practices

The Army uses the expertise of the SHARP program research psychologist and HQE to ensure that Army products are based in research and, when possible, leverage evidence-based prevention practices. For example, Mind’s Eye 2 contains components that map to two primary elements to stop sexual violence identified by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC): (1) promote social norms that protect against violence and (2) provide skills to prevent sexual violence. Mind’s Eye 2 teaches bystander intervention and treats Soldiers as allies who can change the social norms of their unit to promote positive behaviors and healthy environments where sexual assault will not occur. The Army’s sexual assault prevention HQE enhanced the social and emotional learning promoted within Mind’s Eye 2 by strengthening the lessons on empathy toward victims.

1.2 Briefly describe your leadership-approved future plans to reduce the occurrence of sexual assault in your Military Service.

The Army is reviewing research within the last 10 years to reshape future prevention strategies. These types of research strategies consist of three broad topic areas:

- Examine offender behavior, specifically to understand sexual assault offenders and their patterns as a way to reduce sexual assault. This research should identify how to reduce the risk of sexual assault behaviors, recommend practices to improve skills and abilities that will bolster Soldiers’ ability to engage in healthy relationships, and inform effective sexual assault prevention practices.
- Improve understanding of sexual harassment in the military. The research should identify the Army-specific organizational costs related to sexual harassment and study its relationship to sexual assault. The research also should result in strategies that target specific patterns of sexual harassment in the Army.
- Evaluate program effectiveness. This research should help assess the efficacy of prevention and outreach efforts related to sexual harassment and sexual assault. Ultimately, this work should determine which programs and practices are effective based on outcomes, and identify ways to improve SHARP program efforts.

Other leadership-approved plans to reduce the occurrence of sexual assault in the Army include webinars and panel discussions that inform personnel on how to assess prevention programs. The Army intends to focus on building skills for prevention among SHARP program managers and SARCs who often guide prevention efforts within their areas of responsibility. Some of these efforts will occur at the FY19 PIF.

In addition, during FY19, the Army SHARP Academy plans to conduct train-the-trainer sessions for command SHARP trainers who will present bystander intervention classes to Soldiers in their commands.

Future prevention efforts planned by Army commands include:

- FORSCOM will continue to emphasize bystander intervention training using Mind's Eye 2.
- TRADOC is establishing an executive level SHARP review panel chaired by the deputy chief of staff. The purpose of the monthly panel is to develop prevention strategies.
- USAREUR plans to conduct ELITE training for command teams utilizing a virtual environment with various sexual assault scenarios.
- USARC plans to realign its SHARP training management to subordinate command readiness divisions to ensure consistency in support of prevention initiatives.
- ARCENT plans to expand its ambassador program for junior Soldiers to include a quarterly 2-day training event with an in-depth look at intervention techniques; how to identify situations that could lead to sexual violence, and resiliency.
- U.S. Forces, Afghanistan (USFOR-A) recently developed an 18-month strategic plan consisting of training, messaging, outreach, and command emphasis.
- The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) plans to increase the numbers of collateral duty SHARP personnel within the command. This increase will allow for consistent prevention activities and additional monitoring of the command climate.
- USMA plans to use EverFi again in FY19 to review data over a 2-year period. This review will identify any changes in the key focus areas of awareness, willingness to act responsibly, and being a positive influencer in social settings.

2. Goal 2—Victim Assistance and Advocacy

2.1 Summarize your efforts to achieve the Victim Assistance and Advocacy goal to “deliver consistent and effective advocacy and care for all military Service members or their adult dependents, such that it empowers them to report assaults, promotes recovery, facilitates dignified and respectful treatment, and restores military readiness.”

Overall Approach: What force-wide initiatives did your Military Service employ this year to improve response to sexual assault? Were any victim assistance and advocacy initiatives employed with targeted subgroups or specific locations?

Metrics for Assessing Victim Assistance and Advocacy: What metrics or assessment processes are being used to address the effectiveness of victim assistance and advocacy efforts intended to deliver consistent care for all Service members and/or their adult dependents? What is your status in developing indicators for measuring SARCs’ and SAPR VAs’ “quality response” in support of DoD Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program?

SARC and SAPR VA Certification and Renewal: What criteria is your Military Service using to weigh all of the information (records and adverse actions in personnel files and all other information) received to determine eligibility to perform SARC and SAPR VA duties? Are there any identified challenges that SARCs and SAPR VAs have in obtaining continuing education advanced training? How are you addressing these challenges?

SARCs and SAPR VA Suspension, Revocation, and Reinstatement: Have you made any updates to your SARC and SAPR VA suspension, revocation, and reinstatement procedures over the last year? How many SARCs and SAPR VAs in your Military Service received a suspension? A revocation? A reinstatement? (Identify how many SARCs and SAPR VAs for each category)

Initiatives to Improve Response to and Reporting by Male Sexual Assault Victims: What initiatives is your Military Service using to improve its response to and increase reporting by male sexual assault victims?

Military Protective Orders: How many Military Protective Orders were issued as a result of an Unrestricted Report (e.g., number issued, number violated)? What steps (if any) were taken in the last year to improve protections?

Medical and Mental Health Support: How many Service members who reported a sexual assault (if any) had their medical care hindered due to a lack of Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) kits, timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources, mental health counseling, or other resources? How did your Military Service handle any challenges in these areas?

(Army, Air Force, and NGB) National Guard and Reserve Access to SARCs and SAPR VAs: What is being done within your Military Service to promote and improve timely access to SARCs and SAPR VAs by members of the National Guard and Reserves? What are your recurring challenges in this area (if any) and how are you accommodating those challenges?

Coordination with Non-DoD Resources: What efforts are being made to coordinate interoperability with non-DoD victim response organizations (e.g., Veterans Affairs and rape crisis centers)? Include how your Military Service is communicating the availability of these resources (and benefits) to your Service members?

Overall Approach

Advocacy enables the Army to provide direct care for Soldiers, Civilians, and Family members who are victims of sexual assault. Effective advocacy increases adaptability and resiliency that reduces attrition and improves a unit's deployable status and readiness. It also fosters trust in the institution that if sexual assault, sexual harassment, or retaliation incidents do occur, the Army is postured to provide the best possible care and support to victims.

Advocacy is a vital component of the Army's response capacity. The Army is committed to ensuring that every command has qualified and certified SHARP professionals available 24/7 who are capable of responding in a confidential, ethical, and compassionate way. Army SARCs and VAs are critical resources that enable coordination between commanders and other agencies to ensure the best possible response for victims. The Army continues to develop SHARP professionals through training that further enhances their knowledge, skills, and abilities. During FY18, the Army SHARP Academy conducted 7 SARC/VA Career Courses (216 total graduates), 2 SHARP Trainer Courses (21 total graduates), and 2 SHARP Program Manager Courses (26 total graduates) at Fort Leavenworth. In addition, SHARP trainers conducted 168 Foundation Courses (3,846 total graduates) at locations across the Army.

In addition, during FY18, the Army completed a 1-year pilot program extending access to sexual assault services to all Army Civilians. During the pilot, SHARP professionals provided services to 48 Army Civilians (6 who filed restricted reports) including 42 who were in the continental United States (CONUS) and would not have otherwise received SHARP services. Although the pilot program ended, the Army plans provide Army Civilians with permanent access to sexual assault services using existing resources.

The annual SHARP PIF provides a venue for the Army SHARP program office, command SHARP program managers, and installation lead SARCs to interact and share best practices, learn about changes in policy and procedures, and receive advanced education on various aspects of the SHARP program. The Army held its fourth annual PIF on June 27-28, 2018. Nearly 250 SHARP program managers, SARCs, and VAs from around the Army attended, receiving in-depth instruction on prevention initiatives and sexual violence in the digital age. Attendees also reviewed case studies on actions such as expedited transfers. The PIF is part of an ongoing effort to improve the SHARP program and delivery of services Armywide to Soldiers, Civilians, and Family members.

Army SHARP personnel participated in the annual National Organization for Victim Assistance (NOVA) training event. Attendees at the FY18 event in Jacksonville, FL, gained valuable knowledge and insight during keynote presentations from experts and survivors in the field of sexual assault and victim advocacy. Subject matter experts from DoD, law enforcement agencies, and other sexual assault advocacy professionals facilitated discussions on sexual assault case studies, trend analysis, and effective support to victims of sexual assault with special emphasis on support to male victims.

Army SHARP leadership contributes to the DoD Victim Assistance Leadership Council, which advises the Secretary of Defense on policies and practices related to victim assistance. The council's objectives include promoting efficiencies, coordinating victim assistance-related policies, assessing DoD victim assistance standards, and collaborating on issues affecting victims within DoD.

Other initiatives employed by Army commands to improve their response to victims of sexual assault include:

- Participation in the Army SHARP program office's monthly program manager meetings where command program managers share best practices and lessons learned.
- USARPAC continues to broaden efforts of its consolidated SHARP offices and SHARP resource centers (SHARP RCs). This structure provides privacy and encourages victims to come forward to report.
- USAREUR continues to use exceptions to policy for company-level collateral duty VAs, increasing the availability of VAs in forward areas to support numerous ongoing multinational exercises.
- ARCENT employs battlefield circulation and behavioral health promotion teams to provide commanders updated SHARP trends in theater.
- USFOR-A conducts semi-annual sexual assault response training that includes SARCs, Victim Advocates (VAs), behavioral health providers, chaplains, military police, CID, sexual assault forensic examiners, and commanders. SARCs, VAs, and CID special agents have the full support of the USFOR-A Commander for air support capabilities to reach any victim deployed in theater within 72 hours of notification.
- MEDCOM ensures that every Army 24/7 emergency room has at least one SAMFE on staff. MEDCOM also ensures that each sexual assault victim has access to a specialized team of healthcare experts at every Army MTF. The team includes the sexual assault care coordinator (SACC), sexual assault care provider (SACP), sexual assault behavioral health care provider (SABH), and a SAMFE.
- The Army Medical Department Center and School conducted 14 SAMFE courses during FY18, training 240 SAMFEs from the Army, Air Force, and Navy.
- Several INSCOM SARCs have offices in neutral locations away from the unit area to assist victims while maintaining privacy and confidentiality.
- The USMA SHARP team conducts wellness reviews with each victim, addressing areas of stress, such as academics, athletics, and interactions within their cadet companies.
- The Army SHARP Academy revised SHARP annual refresher training which now highlights the detrimental impacts sexual assaults have on a unit's overall readiness.

Metrics for Assessing Victim Assistance and Advocacy

The Army employs an organizational inspection program that uses, as its metrics, the quantitative requirements found in the DoD SAPR and the Army SHARP policy. These metrics include the assignment and availability of trained and certified SARCs and VAs, the conduct of monthly SARBs, and the timely and complete entry of sexual assault cases into the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID). In addition, during FY18, the Army conducted a pilot for the periodic conduct of staff assistance visits (SAVs). The Army SHARP program office designed these SAVs to include collaborative sessions with command SHARP professionals to identify policy, process, and resource issues requiring attention.

Efforts reported by Army organizations to assess the effectiveness of victim assistance include:

- Several FORSCOM installations use client surveys and exit interviews to determine overall satisfaction with victim services.
- AMC performs evaluations through workplace inspections, command climate surveys, SHARP satisfaction surveys, command inspector general (IG) visits, and SAVs.
- USARPAC uses victim experience surveys and comment cards.
- IMCOM uses SHARP satisfaction surveys to measure survivors' experience with services.

SARC and SAPR VA Certification

The Army ensures that personnel entrusted to provide advocacy to sexual assault victims are qualified and trained. In FY18, the DoD Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program (D-SAACP) certified 3,184 Army personnel and recertified 1,375. Currently, 9,226 Army personnel are D-SAACP certified.

The Army enforces stringent screening criteria and background checks for personnel serving as SARCs, VAs, and SHARP program managers. Suitability checks for these "positions of trust" ensure that only the best-qualified and most suitable individuals serve in these important positions. The Army also screens all Army Civilians through the Civilian Personnel Advisory Center prior to employment. The Army's screening process consists of local and national criminal background checks including the national sex offender registry. These checks consist of mandatory disqualification criteria for perpetrators of serious crimes. The checks also consist of screening for minor offenses that only a general officer (GO) can waive.

Commanders also conduct professional selection interviews with Soldiers intended to fill SHARP positions. Interview topics include reasons for wanting to work in the SHARP program, trust and responsibility, financial well-being, and the priority of SHARP responsibilities over other duties. Following a cleared local screening, Soldiers must clear background screening by the Army Human Resources Command (HRC). A GO (SARCs) or colonel (VAs) must appoint, on orders, Soldiers who will perform SARC or VA duties.

The Army follows procedures in DoD Instruction (DoDI) 6495.03, "Defense Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program," which certify SARCs and VAs through NOVA. Army SARCs/VAs who complete the SHARP Foundation Course, or the SHARP

SARC/VA Career Course, submit a DD Form 2950 (Department of Defense Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program Application Packet) to the DoD D-SAACP office for processing. In addition, the Army SHARP Academy confirms each student has cleared local screening prior to attending a course and will not issue a training certificate until confirming that the full background screening is complete.

The Army SHARP program office monitors the status of Army D-SAACP applicants for approval and disapproval and provides information to SHARP program managers at each Army command to track the credentialed status of all SARCs and VAs. In addition, the Army SHARP program office facilitates revocation of credentials, when applicable.

SARC and SAPR VA Recertification and Renewal

The Army continues to offer an online course for SARCs and VAs to assist them in meeting the recertification requirement for 32 hours of continuing education units (CEUs) as required by the D-SAACP certification. The intent of the on-line SARC/VA recertification course is to augment other continuing education and advanced training options (i.e., webinars, forums, conferences). The number of CEUs earned through the on-line recertification course varies as the Army revises the course every other year.

Efforts by Army commands to assist their SARCs and VAs to attain the required CEUs for recertification include:

- AMC ensures availability of webinars, guest speakers, and training with outside resources such as local hospitals and victim advocacy agencies in support of obtaining continuing education and advanced training.
- USARPAC provides CEU opportunities during the annual USARPAC SHARP summit.
- Deployed SHARP personnel in ARCENT depend on web-based training for continuing education credits.
- The ARNORTH SHARP program manager maintains a packet on all SARCs and VAs and monitors CEUs, behaviors, and the overall climate of the SHARP program.
- U.S. Army South (ARSOUTH) monitors and manages all SHARP professionals to ensure that they have opportunities to receive CEUs, and allows SARCs and VAs to attend the Army SHARP PIF and NOVA conferences.

SARCs and SAPR VA Suspension, Revocation, and Reinstatement

The Army follows procedures in DoDI 6495.03 for suspensions, revocations, and reinstatements. If there is an allegation made against a SARC or VA, the command must immediately notify the individual in writing of the complaint and inquiry. The command also notifies the SARC or VA of all rights to appeal and that they may no longer perform SARC or VA duties pending the outcome of an investigation. A GO or a member of the senior executive service (SES) must sign the memorandum which is sent to the Army SHARP program office to be forwarded to the certification authority until final determination of the investigation. Pending the investigation outcome, the commander will determine, in consultation with the staff judge advocate (SJA), whether there is preponderance of evidence to support the complaint. If it is determined that a preponderance of evidence exists, the commander suspends or revokes the D-SAACP certification. A follow-up memorandum is sent to the Army SHARP program office, signed by a GO or SES, to confirm final disposition to revoke or retain certification. The Army SHARP program office forwards the final memorandum to the D-SAACP certification authority for final disposition.

To reinstate a SHARP professional after the conclusion of the investigation, the command must provide a memorandum through the Army SHARP program office. A GO or SES must sign the memorandum and include the rationale for reinstatement. The Army SHARP program office forwards the reinstatement request to the D-SAACP certification authority where the final decision to reinstate the credentials rests.

In FY18, the Army updated its policy for suspending and revoking Civilians' D-SAACP credentials to ensure that Civilians have the opportunity for adjudication and due process while their command works with the CPAC and the SJA. In addition, the Army continues to re-assess criteria for background checks and suitability screening for SHARP professionals by updating specific requirements consistent with DoD policy. The Army published Army Directive 2018-16 (Suitability Criteria for Military Personnel in Specified Positions), updating specific requirements consistent with DoD policy.

Total suspensions, revocations, and reinstatements reported by Army commands:

- 38 suspensions (SARCs = 4; VAs = 34)
- 33 revocations (SARCs = 5; VAs = 28)
- 5 reinstatements (SARCs = 1; VAs = 4)

Response to and Reporting by Male Sexual Assault Victims

The Army continues to focus on the issue of male victimization with specific messaging and products, including a webpage, print, video, and social media content devoted to the topic. In addition, the Army makes a point of emphasizing the availability of resources such as the DoD Safe Help Room by continually advertising the availability of this service.

The Army also participates in the DoD male sexual assault working group, which is currently developing a communication plan for the Military Services. The Army SHARP program office helped inform the development of the communication plan by providing a sample plan on this topic, sample presentations, videos, and other marketing materials developed by the Army.

The digital survivor of sexual assault (DS2A) hologram is now in use at the Army SHARP Academy and provides SHARP professionals with a greater understanding of the impact of sexual violence on individuals, especially male Soldiers. The DS2A hologram, a collaboration between the Army and USC-ICT, provides a highly engaging, interactive capability for students to interact and "converse" with the hologram of a male sexual assault survivor. The goal is to ultimately increase awareness among Soldiers and reduce the stigma for male reporting, which results in significant under reporting among male victims. Results of the FY16 WGRA showed that about 20 percent of male victims reported their sexual assault, compared to 48 percent of female victims.

Army commands report the following efforts to improve their response to male victims:

- To increase male reporting, SHARP professionals in TRADOC dispel myths associated with male victimization, introduce scenarios and case studies involving male victims, and address Soldier perceptions and biases that prevent males from reporting.
- ARCENT uses male VAs to facilitate training to help increase male reporting.
- USFOR-A encourages male reporting and provides brochures and cards that address male sexual assault.
- ARNORTH tailors literature and education to have a more focused approach for male victimization. ARNORTH SHARP personnel also coordinated with a Department of Veterans Affairs liaison who provided lectures on the services available to male veterans.
- USACE conducted male sexual assault survivor panels.
- IMCOM garrisons ensure that annual SHARP face-to-face training includes information on response and reporting of male sexual assaults. IMCOM also uses male victims as guest speakers to talk about their experiences.

Military Protective Orders (MPOs)

Commanders issued 357 MPOs in FY18, compared to 297 in FY17. Two MPOs were reported violated by subjects (compared to 4 in FY17), and 1 was violated by both the subject and the victim.

Given the very low number of MPO violations, most commands report no need for additional steps to improve protections. However, in FY18, some Army installations began including MPO expiration dates as a topic during monthly SARBs. This increased visibility made commanders more aware of when an MPO might be expiring and if an extension might be required.

Access to Medical and Mental Health Support

There were no reports of any Soldiers whose medical care was hindered due to the lack of a sexual assault forensic examination (SAFE) kit in FY18.

There were two reports of delays in providing mental health support to Soldiers who were victims of sexual assault. Although the Soldiers did receive timely initial interviews for mental health support, some had appointment delays of 2 weeks before meeting with a mental health provider. To mitigate appointment delays that occurred in remote locations, the command increased its use of the “virtual health” teleconferencing capability and added military family life counselors.

National Guard and Reserve Access to SARCs and SAPR VAs

Installation and garrison SHARP professionals collaborate with Army Reserve and National Guard counterparts to learn more about their programs and provide a coordinated response. SHARP personnel train with their reserve component partners to understand their needs and requirements. In addition, SHARP RCs are benefit by consolidating SHARP personnel and other support agencies at one neutral location.

Although no specific recurring challenges were cited, Army commands noted the following actions to facilitate Joint and Reserve Component access to SARCs and VAs:

- The TRADOC SHARP program office continues to work closely with the National Guard and Army Reserve SHARP program managers to identify and bridge any gaps that prevent timely access to support services to Guard and Reserve sexual assault victims.
- USARC has 48 full-time civilian authorizations for SARCs and VAs. Currently, full-time civilian personnel fill 32 positions while military personnel temporarily perform SARC and VA duties for the vacant positions. In addition, USARC has more than 400 collateral duty SARCs/VAs at brigade size elements.
- USARPAC includes Army Reserve and Army National Guard (ARNG) SARCs and VAs in monthly SHARP meetings. In addition, Army Reserve and ARNG commanders and SARCs attend monthly SARBs.
- ARSOUTH has Army Reserve and ARNG units in Guantanamo and Honduras. When a victim returns to their home unit, SARCs conduct a “warm hand-off” to ensure that all services are available and continued.
- USARAF SHARP personnel conduct training and working groups with the Army Reserve and ARNG personnel deployed in their region.
- Other commands, such as SMDC, have subordinate Army Reserve and ARNG units with collateral duty SARCs and VAs who receive guidance and support from the SMDC SHARP program.

Coordination with Non-DoD Victim Response Resources

In FY18, the Army continued to engage non-DoD organizations to share best practices and lessons learned to gain insight into the latest research of sexual assault prevention and response. The collaborative efforts included presentations at four regional and national conferences, and participation in selected university roundtable discussions.

Several Army commands report collaborating with non-DoD resources:

- Some TRADOC installations continue to use local Veterans Affairs officials, or other subject matter experts, to discuss resources for victims of military sexual trauma.
- AMC SHARP professionals work with outside civilian organizations to improve interoperability and share best practices. These local organizations include rape crisis centers, domestic violence centers, and local Veterans’ centers. AMC units have memoranda of agreement with local providers who display SHARP service materials.
- USARC initiatives include coordination with local and state police, medical facilities, and veteran organizations. This collaboration enables victims to obtain community support if military resources are not available.
- USFOR-A supports approximately 30,000 contractors in theater. This support includes SHARP training and daily briefings for incoming personnel. USFOR-A also includes language in every contract to ensure that contractors’ companies conduct required training. This support includes reporting options, services, and punishments.
- ARNORTH SHARP personnel meet quarterly with local college and Veterans Affairs representatives to discuss best practices, case studies, trends, and prevention strategies for reducing sexually related incidents in colleges and military communities.

- ARSOUTH continues to improve community relations with the local rape crisis centers, family advocacy programs, and law enforcement.
- During FY18, USACE entered into agreements with 17 non-DoD organizations to help provide timely resources and support to its geographically dispersed units.
- ATEC built partnerships with local veteran centers, rape crisis centers, and hospitals that provide SAFE services.

2.2 Briefly describe your leadership-approved future plans to deliver consistent and effective advocacy and care for all Service members or their adult dependents.

The Army plans to reinstate its male survivor tribute and portrait tour in FY19. This multiple installation tour addresses male experiences of sexual assault using a panel of male uniformed personnel who are survivors along with a group of subject matter experts from government, academic, and advocacy organizations. The portrait display captures the stories of men who experienced sexual assault.

The Army is publishing a SHARP Campaign Plan in FY19, which supports the victim assistance and advocacy objectives of DoD's SAPR Strategic Plan, 2017-2021. The SHARP Campaign Plan nests with the Army Campaign Plan objectives to "Take Care of Troops" and the strategic effort of holistic health and fitness. These guiding principles align the Army's response efforts to meet the Army Campaign Plan requirement to provide the infrastructure, support, and services to optimize Soldier performance and strengthen resilience in Army Families.

In FY19, the Army SHARP Academy plans to revise the SARC/VA Recertification Course to consist of a series of stand-alone lessons that SHARP professionals can complete for CEU credits. This revision allows SARCs and VAs the ability to choose a specific educational topic and receive the CEUs approved for that topic rather than having to complete the entire course for the total number of CEU credits.

In addition, the Army SHARP Academy is working with USC-ICT and the Army Research Laboratory to develop a system to provide SARCs and VAs with the opportunity to communicate directly with a digital-based victim (recorded actor) in a variety of anonymous sexual assault scenarios. This simulator allows SARCs and VAs to receive feedback on their communication and empathy skills with variety of virtual victims.

Finally, the Army SHARP Academy plans to conduct 7 SARC/VA Career Courses in FY19 (32 students per course), 125 Foundation Courses (32 students per course), 2 Trainer Courses (16 students per course), and 2 Program Manager Courses (16 students per course).

3. Goal 3—Investigation

3.1 Summarize your efforts for achieving the Investigation goal to “sustain a high level of competence in the investigation of adult sexual assault using investigative resources to yield timely results.”

Overall Approach: What force-wide initiatives did your Military Service employ this year to improve investigation of sexual assault cases? What enhancements have been made to your Military Service’s Special Victim Investigation and Prosecution Capability for Military Criminal Investigative Organizations?

Metrics for Assessing Investigation Effectiveness: What metrics are being used to assess the effectiveness of investigation efforts intended to sustain a high level of competence in the investigation of adult sexual assault?

Military Criminal Investigative Organization (MCIO), Law Enforcement, and Other First Responder Training: What updates have been made to the training of your Military Service MCIO and other DoD law enforcement activity (LEA) resources assigned to conduct an investigation of adult sexual assault? Please include an update on training you are providing to law enforcement who are the first to respond to an adult sexual assault scene where the MCIO won't be able to respond for days. Specifically, what training does law enforcement receive for speaking with a sexual assault victim and preserving evidence (on the victim and on the physical scene) in remote or austere environments (e.g., in a submarine that won't surface for a week because of mission security requirements)? Additionally, describe any updates to training and guidance for all first responders to a sexual assault allegation, ensuring the preservation of evidence and witness testimony.

Evidence Processing Challenges: Have you had any challenges with evidence being processed at the Defense Forensic Science Center (e.g., turnaround time for processing of Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) kits and other evidence) and how did you address these challenges?

Collaboration and Interoperability with Civilian Law Enforcement: What continuing efforts are being made to increase collaboration and improve interoperability with civilian law enforcement to include sharing information on Civilian and Military Protective Orders and assuring receipt of civilian case dispositions?

Overall Approach

CID has a special victim capability at all of its locations around the world and has a set of baseline standards that special agents must meet before they can attend advanced training in sexual assault investigations. Upon completion of the advanced sexual assault training, CID agents meet the special victim capability requirements and receive an additional skill identifier (ASI) to their military occupational specialty (MOS). This ASI helps track the number of agents trained in this specialty and assists in the assignment process to ensure that at least one, if not more, special victim capability agents is at each CID office throughout the Army, including deployed environments. Further, the Office of

The Judge Advocate General (OTJAG) and CID conduct a 1-week training session featuring sexual assault investigators (SAIs) and special victim prosecutors (SVPs) to identify best business practices to enhance the integration and collaboration of attorneys and investigators on the special victim capability teams throughout the Army.

Currently, 734 CID field agents have completed the advanced training in sexual assault investigations. CID agents at all field locations have joined with SVPs, victim witness liaisons (VWLs), SARCs, and VAs to form a special victim capability at 63 Army installations worldwide. At some locations, SHARP-RCs facilitate team integration making it easier for victims to report and obtain support at these “one-stop” sites. At large installations, special sexual assault investigative teams facilitate timely and thorough investigations.

Metrics for Assessing Investigation Effectiveness

Current indicators of investigative effectiveness strongly suggest that CID training and investigative actions are effective in improving the investigative response to sexual assault allegations. Indicators of investigative effectiveness include:

- The high number of judicial and non-judicial actions taken against offenders.
- The low number of sexual assault investigations found to be deficient during DoD Inspector General (DoDIG) inspections.
- The low number of complaints received from victims about investigator misconduct or shortcomings.

MCIO, Law Enforcement, and Other First Responder Training

In 2009, the U.S. Army Military Police School (USAMPS) established the Special Victim Capability Course (SVCC), recognized as the “DoD Best Practice” for sexual assault investigation training. SVCC training is an intense 2-week course that establishes common criteria and core competencies in trauma, memory recall, alcohol facilitated sexual assault, same sex sexual assaults, marital sexual assaults, child and domestic violence, false report myths, false recantations, and enhanced interview techniques. The Army SVCC trains investigators and prosecutors from all Services. SVCC training includes:

- Understanding and respecting a victim’s immediate needs and priorities.
- Ensuring a victim’s criminal complaints are taken seriously and fully investigated.
- Establishing transparency and trust with the victim.
- Explaining the investigative process to the victim.
- Using trauma awareness interviews to assist victim’s recollection of events.

Accredited with the federal law enforcement standards and procedures, the SVCC trains prosecutors and investigators to help provide the common operating picture needed for successful special victim capability teams.

In addition, the Army SHARP Academy works with USAMPS to develop responder training. During FY18, representatives from the SHARP Academy and USAMPS traveled to several Army installations to train first responders and provide train-the-trainer training to the local SHARP personnel to conduct the training in the future.

Finally, for the second year in a row, senior CID agents and senior trial counsel from OTJAG met in FY18 and identified best business practices and ways to improve the Army's investigation and prosecution of sexual assault.

Evidence Processing Challenges

There have been no challenges in having evidence processed at the Defense Forensic Science Center (DFSC). The forensic examination of physical evidence in sexual assault investigations in FY18 averaged 62 days; however, evidence backlogged from FY17 adversely affected that average. In the final 3 months of FY18, the average turnaround time at the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory (USACIL) for sexual assault evidence examinations was 55 days, a 20 percent reduction from FY17.

Collaboration and Interoperability with Civilian Law Enforcement

The CID routinely conducts joint investigations with civilian law enforcement agencies when felony crimes occur in their jurisdictions and involve Soldiers as suspects or victims. The investigators work closely together, often collaborating, to complete various investigative tasks (i.e., interviews, crime scene processing, hospital treatment, executing warrants, etc.). While working together, each agency shares its best practices and techniques. CID often adopts civilian best practices and innovative techniques.

At many locations throughout the world, CID agents accompany military victims to civilian hospitals for treatment and administration of a sexual assault forensic examination. The interaction between agents, healthcare personnel, local officials, and non-governmental organizations during these visits assists in increasing collaboration with civilian agencies. In addition, many CID officers are members of local law enforcement working groups or associations that represent law enforcement officers at the local, State, and Federal levels. These groups routinely meet on a monthly basis, and the frequent contact and interaction between members and CID agents increases the efficiency and effectiveness of collaboration.

Most of the CID's 450 Army Reserve agents are members of law enforcement organizations at local, State, and Federal levels. These agents allow CID the ability to leverage their talents and civilian law enforcement processes, improving CID investigative practices and enabling greater interoperability by tapping their interagency relationships.

The Army's Office of the Provost Marshal General (OPMG), through the International Association of Chiefs of Police, has hosted and attended several law enforcement meetings and executive sessions addressing sexual violence. In addition, USAMPS instructors who teach the SVCC have taught local law enforcement and prosecutors across the United States, fostering increased awareness and recognition of the Army as a leader in sexual assault investigation and prosecution.

In addition, in FY18, senior sexual assault investigation team chiefs attended the annual training events on crimes against women and children. The team chiefs then took the training from these events back to their home stations and instructed the agents in their local offices. Attending such meetings is just another way that increases the collaboration efforts of CID with civilian subject matter experts.

3.2 Briefly describe your leadership-approved future plans to sustain a high level of competence in the investigation of adult sexual assault.

The CID will achieve high competence in the investigation of adult sexual assaults by sustaining the progress previously achieved in investigative thoroughness and timeliness. The USAMPS continues to refine the SVCC training, incorporating new and proven methods to ensure that the course remains on the cutting edge of technological advances and evolving investigative practices. This continued improvement of the SVCC includes advances in psychological and behavioral sciences, provided by civilian experts in those fields. CID will continue to send its agents to the SVCC with a goal to have all field agents trained. Currently, 734 military and civilian agents have received the SVCC training.

Agents also will improve their investigative skills by attending other advanced training in crime scene processing, child abuse, and domestic violence. Personnel attending these advanced courses receive another ASI that highlights their expertise in all areas within the special victim capability system.

The CID plans to update its pamphlet on sexual assault investigations and immediately distribute it in order to codify emerging best practices. CID also will continue to work for a revision of restrictive requirements on pre-text telephone calls and communications (a common best practice by civilian law enforcement in sexual assault investigations) that hampers collection of evidence.

4. Goal 4—Accountability

4.1 Summarize your efforts to achieve the Accountability goal to “maintain a high competence in holding alleged offenders appropriately accountable.”

Overall Approach: What force-wide initiatives did your Military Service employ this year to improve legal support to Service members and adult family members who reported a sexual assault? What enhancements have been made to the SAPR training provided to those who are affiliated with the Special Victim Investigation and Prosecution Capability program (i.e., paralegals, trial counsel, and victim-witness assistance personnel) for responding to allegations of sexual assault?

Metrics for Assessing Accountability Effectiveness: What metrics are being used to assess the effectiveness of holding alleged offenders appropriately accountable, to include your Military Service’s metrics for measuring the success of the Special Victims’ Counsel (SVC) / Victims’ Legal Counsel (VLC) program?

Keeping Leaders and Responders Informed of Updates on Victim Rights and Military Justice Updates: How are you ensuring that SARCs, SAPR VAs, MCIOs, and commanders are informed of recent victim rights and military justice updates?

Special Victims’ Counsel (SVC) / Victims’ Legal Counsel (VLC) Program Enhancements: What enhancements has your Military Service made to the SVC/VLC program over the last year? Describe efforts to fund these programs in the future through the POM process.

Victim Non-Participation in the Military Justice System: What insight and/or reasons can you provide that may explain the declining number of victims choosing to participate in the military justice system over the last few years?

Overall Approach

In FY18, the Armywide initiatives to improve legal support focused on enhancing the special victim capability, improving training for judge advocates (JAs), modifying the structure of the SVC program, revising the JA personnel assignment systems, and improving coordination between military justice and law enforcement databases.

The Army’s primary source of legal support to victims of sexual assault and family violence is SVP teams. The Judge Advocate General’s Corps (JAGC) continues to select the most highly qualified litigators to lead these teams and currently has all authorized civilian special victim witness liaisons (SVWL) and special victim witness NCO paralegals. In FY18, the Army monitored the workload for SVP teams and assigned additional SVPs in locations with the greatest needs.

In FY18, the Army implemented changes to both functional and institutional training for JAs. The Army trial counsel assistance program (TCAP), tasked to develop functional training for JAs, worked to enhance trial prosecution training provided to counsel, paralegals and victim-witness personnel. TCAP implemented a new 1-week course to train prosecutors on the complexities of handling cases with Service members and military dependents as victims. In addition, in FY18 the Army held a conference with SVPs and special victim investigators (SVIs) from Army CID to facilitate better coordination between law enforcement and prosecutors in sexual assault cases. TCAP, and its counterpart, the defense counsel assistance program (DCAP), offered 64 advocacy courses and outreach programs in FY18, refining counsel expertise in litigating special victim and other offenses.

The Judge Advocate General's Legal Center and School (TJAGLCS), the Army organization tasked to develop institutional training for JAs and paralegals, improved the mock trial advocacy exercise related to sexual assault and added more instruction related to retaliation. TJAGLCS also expanded participation in the SVC course to paralegals to improve support in the SVC offices.

In addition, in FY18, the Army implemented a pilot program at four installations designed to increase the proficiency of prosecution teams in both sexual assault and general crimes cases. The pilot program, now expanded to nine locations, should increase proficiency in prosecution, enable investigations that are more complete, provide better victim care, allow speedier trials, improve trial practice, and permit more justice at trial.

Finally, the Military Justice Initiatives Council, comprised of stakeholders from the prosecution, defense, trial judiciary, training, and appellate court branches conducted a comprehensive review of personnel management procedures for critical military justice billets.

Metrics for Assessing Accountability Effectiveness

The Army uses multiple metrics to assess the effectiveness of holding alleged offenders appropriately accountable.

In addition to the metrics and non-metrics provided in the statistical analysis (section 8.1) of this report, the JAGC utilizes Military Justice Online (MJO) and the Army Court-Martial Information System (ACMIS) to monitor trends across the full spectrum of crime. ACMIS and MJO allow for analysis of processing times, rank, gender, location, age, and other demographics.

Understanding that accountability trends need to be placed in context, the JAGC works collaboratively with OPMG to assess and compare trends in crime data with accountability data.

OTJAG conducts inspections of all installation SJA offices, including military justice divisions, pursuant to Article 6, Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ). These inspections provide military justice data trends for the specific installation to assist with a comprehensive inspection and assessment of effectiveness at the local level.

Finally, OTJAG continued to implement a program that brings outside observers from the civilian legal community with expertise in litigation to observe and critique JAGC training.

The SVC program utilizes separate metrics to measure effectiveness. These metrics include the number of restricted reports converted to unrestricted reports, the number of courts-martial SVC attend, the number of interlocutory appeals filed, and other appellate actions taken on behalf of clients. Specifically, in FY18:

- An average of nearly 35 restricted cases converted to an unrestricted status each quarter. This represented an increase of two additional converted cases per quarter from FY17 to FY18.

- SVC attended 252 courts-martial. Although this total number represents a decrease in attendance by SVC from an average of 70 courts-martial per quarter to 63 per quarter, the implementation of new legislation led to an overall increase in SVC engagement. This legislation created a new UCMJ article, Article 117a, which became effective 1 December 2017. It prohibits the broadcasting or distribution of certain intimate visual images. Although Article 117a is not among the enumerated offenses that authorizes SVC services, the nature of the offenses is so similar to that of Article 120c that the SVC program manager determined that providing SVC services to Article 117a victims is appropriate.

- SVC filed two interlocutory appeals. This appellate advocacy continues to serve as a testament to the commitment of SVCs to the zealous representation of their clients.

The SVC program also collects evaluations of the SVC Certification Courses from students attending the course and from sister Service SVC leadership attendees. The Army uses feedback received in these evaluations to make improvements to the course.

The SVC program also receives indirect feedback from The Judge Advocate General (TJAG) by way of the follow-on assignments of SVCs. SVCs generally received their requested assignment and none has reported adverse impacts on their career based on having served as an SVC. In addition, promotion rates of those who have served as SVCs are equal to or exceed those of the promotion board population as a whole.

The Army standard is that every SVC must complete a certification course and be certified personally by TJAG prior to serving any clients. SVCs also must complete a child representation course before representing child clients. The Air Force and the Army collaborated and sent attendees to each Service's certification course to ensure consistency in training and course content. Each of the sister Services provides experienced SVC facilitators and instructors for the Army SVC certification and child advocacy courses.

Keeping Leaders and Responders Informed of Updates on Victim Rights and Military Justice Updates

In FY18, TJAGLCS, OTJAG, and the Fort Leavenworth SJA continued to build upon an existing relationship with the Army SHARP Academy to provide military justice training to SARC and VAs. A senior JA with valuable and substantial experience delivers the training, with any requested assistance from TJAGLCS. The training includes an overview of the military justice process, updates to victim's rights, the rules for courts-martial, military rules of evidence, Article 120, retaliation, and commanders' responsibilities to the victim. The Fort Leavenworth SJA office works closely with the SHARP Academy to develop curriculum with scenario based confidentiality and ethics instruction, to include a renewed focus on the SARC and SAPR VA's relationships to the victim and SVCs, command roles, and retaliation.

Changes to the UCMJ are integrated into SHARP annual training with the assistance of attorneys from TJAGLCS and TCAP. In addition, the SVCC at USAMPS is held eight times a year and includes JA instruction on prosecution of sexual assault cases.

Brigade level commanders must attend the Senior Officer Leadership Orientation (SOLO) Course at TJAGLCS, and many battalion commanders attend on a space available basis. At SOLO, commanders receive a specific block of instruction on sexual assault response and prevention. Every GO attends the General Officer Leadership Orientation (GOLO), a one-on-one desk side briefing covering victims' rights, convening authority responsibilities, military justice updates, changes to the UCMJ, retaliation issues, and prevention strategies. Company commanders receive onsite training from a trial counsel serving the jurisdiction on victims' rights, reporting, and processing sexual assault cases.

SVC Program Enhancements

The Army enhanced the SVC program through additional authorizations, regionalization, and site visits by the Army OTJAG SVC program manager.

During FY18, TJAG authorized 12 new SVC authorizations to be distributed to installations and units that either currently do not have SVC authorizations or the current authorizations are no longer sufficient to effectively meet the demand for SVC services. As part of its new force structure, the SVC program also added a billet for a JA warrant officer, expertly trained in the areas of force structure and budgeting. The SVC program personnel currently work in conjunction with the U.S. Army Legal Services Agency during the budget process to help ensure proper funding.

During FY18, TJAG approved the regionalization of the SVC program into five geographic regions. There are three CONUS regions and two outside CONUS (OCONUS) regions. Each region has a newly assigned SVC regional manager. Regional managers are SVC certified JAs who have extensive SVC and/or military justice experience. Regional managers serve as mid-level managers in the technical chain of command. SVCs are able to consult with the regional managers for guidance and assistance. Regional managers monitor attorney caseloads and assist with maintaining balanced caseloads among the JAs serving as SVCs. If a sexual assault victim moves to a location away from the site of the assault, regional managers assist with assigning an SVC at the new location. Regional managers conduct training, which supplements mandatory certification training at TJAGLCS.

The final FY18 enhancement to the SVC program was the implementation of site visits to installations with SVCs. The site visits allow the Army SVC program manager to assess the strength of the program, the provision of services, and the concerns and needs specific to the location, installation, or unit. The visits also allow SVC leadership to provide support and assistance to SVCs and permit interaction with the leadership in the field to educate them regarding the role and responsibilities of SVCs.

Victim Non-Participation in the Military Justice System

The Army's rate of victims who opted not to participate in the military justice process has not changed significantly over the past 5 years. The Army rate, below 6 percent, compares favorably with rates cited in testimony before the Defense Advisory Committee on the Investigation, Prosecution, and Defense of Sexual Assault (DAC-IPAD) by civilian law enforcement officials who cited ranges from 50-60 percent of victims dropping out after an initial report to police.

The Army dedicates substantial resources to develop teams of specialized personnel (i.e., investigators, prosecutors, victim witness liaisons, and paralegals) to educate and support victims through the process. In place since 2009, special victim capability teams work closely with victims to establish a trusting and cooperative relationship. The SVC program further cultivates an environment that allows victims the best opportunity to participate in the process.

4.2 Briefly describe your leadership-approved future plans to maintain a high competence in holding alleged offenders appropriately accountable.

The JAGC and OMPG/CID initiated a joint information technology project to improve coordination between military justice and law enforcement databases. Expected to be completed in FY19, the initiative will transform the reporting of disposition data for all offenses, including sexual assault offenses, generating both efficiencies and quality assurance.

During FY19, the Army plans to add three new military paralegal positions to support SVCs at corps headquarters locations. These paralegals support vital enhancements of victim services by providing much needed administrative and logistical support allowing SVCs to focus their efforts on providing legal advice and advocacy.

In addition, in FY19, the Army will continue to implement and assess the results of a pilot program at three installations to test a redistribution of prosecution assets designed to increase efficiencies and proficiency in handling special victim and general crimes.

Finally, FY19 promises to be a transformative year for military justice. The Military Justice Act of 2016, the largest rewrite of the UCMJ since 1954, took effect on January 1, 2019. The law streamlines processes and provides significant changes to pretrial agreements, the selection of panel members, findings of guilt, and sentencing procedures. The law also modernizes the military justice system by adopting changes that more accurately align with civilian practice, while maintaining the unique nature and purpose of the UCMJ to provide for good order and discipline. Finally, the law provides new articles to better address sexual misconduct and domestic violence offenses.

5. Goal 5—Assessment

5.1 Summarize your efforts for achieving the Assessment goal to “effectively measure, analyze, assess, and report SAPR Program progress to improve effectiveness.”

Oversight Activities: What are your efforts to enhance SAPR Program oversight activities, to include the use of recent surveys (e.g., WGRA, WGRR, and DEOCS) and insights from the Government Accountability Office, advisory committees, and internal inspections to improve your programs and services?

Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID): What force-wide initiatives did your Military Service employ this year to ensure the quality, reliability, and validity of data collected in DSAID?

SARC/VA and Healthcare Provider Training Effectiveness: How is your Military Service assessing the training provided to SARCs/VAs and healthcare providers? What actions, if any, have been taken to implement any new training over the past year?

Retention of DD Forms 2910 & 2911: Has your Military Service experienced any challenge(s) in fulfilling the 50-year retention of DD Form 2910 (Victim Reporting Preference Statement) and DD Form 2911 (DoD Sexual Assault Forensic Examination Report)? If yes, what actions have been taken to mitigate the challenge(s)?

(Army & NGB) GAO Report: Sexual Assault – Better Resource Management Needed to Improve Prevention and Response in the Army National Guard (ANG) and Army Reserve (USAR): What actions have been taken to comply with the subject GAO Report (i.e., assessment of staffing approaches used to administer the SAPR program; communication and dissemination of budget guidance for the Sexual Harassment/Assault Response and Prevention (SHARP) Program to all full-time SHARP personnel; monitoring and providing oversight of SHARP program expenditures at the ANG and USAR command level; reassessment of the Office of Complex Administrative Investigation’s timeliness and resources; and development of an expedited line-of-duty determination process for USAR sexual assault victims)?

Oversight Activities

The Army SHARP program office provides oversight utilizing a variety of formal and informal mechanisms. During FY18, the Army SHARP program office:

- Hosted monthly program manager teleconferences where each Army command (ACOM), Army service component command (ASCC), and direct reporting unit (DRU) program manager provides an update regarding his or her command’s SHARP program.

- Conducted daily verification checks of the DoD Safe Helpline to ensure that contact information is accurate for responders at Army installations.
- Provided commands with an organization inspection program (OIP) checklist.
- Informally provided oversight during visits to commands, answering questions from the field, and providing guidance and updates to SHARP professionals.
- Piloted a SAV program designed for the ACOM, ASCC, and DRU levels of command. The intent of the new SAV program is to capture more qualitative data to complement the quantitative data collected by the SHARP OIP.
- Collaborated with the RAND Arroyo Center to conduct research and surveys to identify characteristics of units, installations, and commands that appear to be associated with Soldier's risk of sexual assault and harassment.
- Established an integrated processing team (IPT) to determine specific issues related to resourcing brigade-size units in accordance with the governing statute. This IPT consisted of SHARP professionals from ACOMs, ASCCs, and DRUs and representatives from Department of the Army, Civilian Personnel Office, and the Army G-2. One of the IPT recommendations was to increase the civilian grades for SARCs and VAs at specific locations that require increased workloads and responsibilities, as well as at locations facing significant challenges filling SHARP vacancies.

The Department of the Army Inspector General (DAIG) conducted a systemic inspection of the Army SHARP program from May through September 2018 to assess compliance with and implementation of applicable DoD and Army policies/guidance. The inspection team reviewed 333 documents, conducted 177 interviews and 118 sensing sessions, acquired more than 1,380 surveys, and made more than 1,860 contacts. The inspection team visited 14 locations in CONUS and 2 locations OCONUS. The inspection (with results to be published in FY19) had three objectives: (1) assess the adequacy of Army regulations and policies governing the Army SHARP program, (2) assess prevention and training measures to reduce the prevalence of sexual harassment and sexual assault, and (3) evaluate command's response, support to victims, and prevention of retaliation.

Army commands use a combination of SAVs and command inspections to gather insight and provide oversight on subordinate commands' programs:

- TRADOC uses command inspections, command climate surveys, and workplace surveys to help evaluate and improve SHARP processes across the command.
- During FY18, the AMC IG team and the AMC SHARP program manager conducted training, shared best practices across organizations, and provided leadership with findings and recommendations specific to their organization.
- USARPAC and IMCOM conduct inspections through OIP to ensure their SHARP programs are functioning in accordance with Army and DoD policies.
- USFOR-A actively uses their IG and DEOCS data for objective and impartial feedback. USFOR-A SHARP also routinely solicits feedback from Soldiers, Civilians, company grade leaders, and SHARP representatives from throughout the theater.
- INSCOM employs SHARP focus groups during command inspections and staff assistance visits.

- USACE uses SAVs and the results of the DEOCS to measure performance and effectiveness throughout the command.
- In addition to assistance visits and command inspections, ATEC works directly with Equal Opportunity (EO) and Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) programs, IGs, and legal teams to assess and make recommendations based on the results of command climate surveys.
- Many IMCOM garrisons have established SHARP working groups that support goals of local health promotion councils to reduce sexual assault and improve response.

Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID)

The Army has a variety of measures in place to ensure the quality, validity, and reliability of Army data in DSAID. The Army SHARP program office prepares and sends monthly quality control reports to each installation lead SARC. These reports identify data quality issues (i.e., data entry errors or missing data), potential duplicate cases, cases CID is investigating that are not in DSAID, interface errors between DSAID and the Army Law Enforcement Reporting and Tracking System (ALERTS), and a list of all cases entered at an installation.

The Army SHARP program office also sends monthly command reports to ACOM, ASCC, and DRU program managers. These reports contain aggregated data on reports, victims, and subjects, as well as non-personally identifying information on all cases in DSAID that involve the command's personnel as either a victim or subject, as well as cases entered by a SARC from that ACOM, ASCC, or DRU.

For data in the DSAID legal officer module, CID provides a list of closed cases with identified subjects to OTJAG quarterly. OTJAG sends the list to the Army SHARP program office to identify civilian subjects and cases not in DSAID. The Army SHARP program office sends the updated list back to OTJAG who enters the final disposition data into DSAID after querying the field and ACMIS.

The Army SHARP program office also meets weekly with OTJAG and CID representatives to discuss ongoing DSAID data issues. The weekly conference has enhanced quality control and resulted in process efficiencies across the DSAID modules.

The Army SHARP program office also provides DSAID training to new SARCs and VAs who attend the career course at the Army SHARP Academy. In addition, the Army SHARP program office provides DSAID training through webinars and in-person to commands when requested, including 40 SHARP professionals from Japan, Korea, Alaska, and Hawaii during the FY18 USARPAC SHARP conference.

Efforts by Army commands to improve data quality include:

- TRADOC developed quality control measures using SMS to isolate cases with critical missing data.
- USAREUR creates monthly command reports to inform SARCs and commanders of the quality of their DSAID data.
- USARAF conducts sexual assault case data reconciliation with CID and JA personnel on a monthly basis. In addition, all SARCs meet monthly before the SARB to ensure that all data is accurate.

- IMCOM SARCs use the new case-level report function in DSAID to provide timely missing data reports. This function facilitates better oversight of DSAID data quality.

SARC/VA and Healthcare Provider Training Effectiveness

The Army SHARP Academy uses end-of-course surveys and graduate surveys to continuously update and improve SHARP professional training and education. These surveys gather information from SARCs and VAs (and their commanders) 6 months after they complete the SARC/VA Career Course. In addition, the SHARP Academy conducts semi-annual conferences to discuss recommended changes to lessons based on student and instructor input, survey results, and changes to policy and regulations.

The MEDCOM SHARP program office developed and published the “Sexual Assault First Responder and Healthcare Personnel Training.” All MTF personnel receive this addendum to the mandatory annual SHARP training. Discussion points include medical regulations and policies, victim response, trauma, and reporting requirements.

Efforts by other Army organizations to assess training include:

- USARPAC SARCs provide quarterly training to healthcare providers and SAMFE brief newly assigned SHARP personnel.
- ARCENT conducts healthcare provider training with SARCs and VAs in theater to ensure that everyone understands their roles in the SHARP process.
- USFOR-A collaborates with the behavioral health psychologist to teach multiple classes on victimology to SARCs, VAs, and ethics managers.
- ARSOUTH provides quarterly training to SARC and VAs who also attend a local hospital tour at least twice a year to observe the SAFE exam process.
- USARAF SHARP personnel train healthcare personnel upon arrival in theater and again during peak periods of personnel turnover.

Retention of DD Forms 2910 & 2911

The Army SHARP program office conducted an inventory of all DD Form 2910s (Victim Reporting Preference Statement) across the Army in July and August 2018. The Army identified more DD Form 2910s than the number of restricted reports recorded, and nearly the same number of DD Form 2910s as unrestricted reports. The Army is in the process of conducting a case-by-case inventory of all paper copies of DD Form 2910 and expects to complete this inventory by February 2019, with results published in the FY19 Annual Report.

MEDCOM has no challenges in fulfilling the retention of DD Forms 2911. The Patient Administration Systems and Biostatistics Activity (PASBA) located at Fort Sam Houston, TX, is the Army proponent for storing DD Forms 2911. The DD Form 2911 is sent to the National Personnel Records Center (NPRC) after 5 years from the date the victim signed the DD Form 2911. NPRC stores the DD Form 2911 for the remaining 45 years. This process will continue until an electronic process is available.

Actions to Comply with Government Accountability Office (GAO) Report

The Army, ARNG, and USARC took the following actions in FY18 to comply with GAO Report 17-217:

- The Center for Army Analysis (CAA) conducted a SHARP program review to determine the number and combination of program managers, SARCs, VAs, and trainers required to manage the SHARP program across the Army. CAA recommended the following actions:
  - Update and streamline SHARP policy and doctrine.
  - Improve (accelerate) the process for hiring, credentialing, and retaining these SHARP professionals.
  - Designate a force modernization proponent for the Army SHARP program.
  - Clearly define brigade size elements and ensure that all active component Army brigades adhere to the FY12 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA).
  - Clarify use of USARC and ARNG collateral duty SHARP personnel and use of active duty operational support personnel.
  - Develop a career path for SHARP personnel.
- To address findings identified during the CAA review, the Army SHARP program office initiated a work force review to determine the number of allocated personnel and fill rates from each component. This effort will allow the Army to develop a plan to ensure all components have the resources to comply with statutes governing the Army SHARP program.
- The Army SHARP program office implemented a quarterly budget review with USARC and ARNG SHARP program offices. In addition, guidance regarding SHARP program budgeting and resources has been included in the draft SHARP regulation.
- The Army SHARP program office also distributed guidance regarding the proper use of appropriated funds to procure outreach materials. The Army guidance limited the procurement of SHARP materials from third-party vendors.
- The ARNG distributed FY18 funding guidance for all full-time Joint Force Headquarters (JFHQ) SARCs and VAs.
- The ARNG resourced one military position and one civilian position to help ensure timely investigations of sexual assault crimes involving ARNG Soldiers.
- The National Guard Bureau (NGB) conducted an internal assessment of the NGB Office of Complex Administrative Investigations.
- USARC developed guidance for resource management and budget execution for the USARC SHARP program to ensure the efficient and effective use of program funds. This guidance applies to all USARC SHARP personnel responsible for executing SHARP financial management functions.
- USARC streamlined its line-of-duty (LOD) procedures for sexual assault LOD processing. The revised procedures allow SARCs to process all LODs and route them directly to the USARC SHARP office for review. This process drastically reduces the visibility of LODs by non-credentialed personnel and the timeline required to complete

LODs. USARC ensures that all SHARP professionals with access to the LOD management system are D-SAACP credentialed and Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) certified.

5.2 Describe your leadership-approved future plans to further improve the achievement of the Assessment goal.

The Army will begin a comprehensive oversight program in the second quarter of FY19. The program includes quarterly SAVs during which Army SHARP program office personnel will work with commands to review their SHARP program, assist with program implementation, and assess the effectiveness of policies and procedures. These SAVs also will include assessments of command's compliance with expedited transfer procedures.

The Army SHARP program office will also conduct quarterly budget reviews, which include analysis of spend plans and execution of funds, with each command and all components. These reviews will ensure that SHARP budgets comply with regulatory guidance and identify best practices or shortcomings.

In addition, the Army SHARP program office plans to conduct a pilot program in FY19 allowing selected VAs to have access to DSAID. The intent of the pilot is to determine the effect of these additional DSAID users on the Army's sexual assault data quality.

Finally, the Army plans to assess its current processes for filling authorized civilian SHARP positions. Specifically, the Army SHARP program office, the Army Civilian Human Resources Activity, the Army G-2, and commands will collaborate to review procedures, identify ways to mitigate hiring difficulties, streamline the hiring process, reduce the timeframe for background screening, and eliminate using borrowed military manpower.

Future plans of Army organizations to assess their SHARP programs include:

- FORSCOM installations plan to conduct trend analysis to identify any gaps in length of time for services, case transfers, expedited transfers, and referrals to SVCs.
- TRADOC extended its SMS contract through FY19 to ensure that all SHARP personnel can use SMS to provide in-depth sexual assault reporting data and trend analysis.
- The Army Reserve plans to use the Army SHARP OIP checklist and establish key performance indicators to measure SHARP program effectiveness
- USARPAC will continue to provide guidance to senior commanders to conduct SHARP inspections, provide Army approved training, and collaborate with EO offices to review command climate survey results.
- USAREUR plans to conduct trend analysis at the unit level, both for permanent units and deployed units.
- The ARNORTH commanding general approved an action plan for conducting SAVs in all ten ARNORTH regions.
- Some IMCOM units plan to develop dashboards for monitoring trends and analysis of sexual assault cases and reporting procedures.

6. Core Functions: Communication and Policy

6.1 Provide a brief summary for new efforts taken in FY 2018 on the following:

Publicizing Sexual Assault Reporting Options: Is your Military Service using any new or expanded initiatives to publicize the sexual assault restricted and unrestricted reporting options to your Service members and adult dependents?

Retaliation Training: How has the topic of retaliation been incorporated into supervisor (officer, enlisted, and civilian) and SAPR training curricula? What are the critical themes, core competencies, and learning objectives for retaliation training? Does it provide instruction on resources available for victims to report retaliation and the availability of a General/Flag Officer review when a victim is separated within one year of final disposition of his/her sexual assault case?

Military/Veteran Service Organization (MSO/VSO), Federal Partner, and Congressional Outreach: What has your Military Service done to develop and implement MSO/VSO, federal partner, and/or congressional outreach to communicate and/or enhance sexual assault-related policy initiatives?

Publicizing Sexual Assault Reporting Options

The Army maximizes all communication channels when it comes to ensuring awareness of reporting options. The Army released a “Guidebook for Army Civilians” in FY18 that provides an overview of available services, to include reporting options. In addition, the Army uses print, video, radio, social media, Army News Service, and websites to ensure eligible patrons of SHARP services are aware of their reporting options. In FY18, the Army’s SHARP Twitter account and Facebook site received a marketing and communication (MarCom) Gold Award from the Association of Marketing and Communication Professionals. The MarCom award honors excellence in marketing and communication while recognizing the creativity and hard work of industry professionals.

Army command actions to publicize sexual assault reporting options include:

- TRADOC units advertise reporting options through SHARP response team flyers, SHARP information boards, SHARP literature, and annual training.
- USARPAC displays reporting options on unit information boards, websites, and all marketing and awareness materials. USARPAC SHARP offices also schedule and ensure that SHARP training is included during newcomer briefings.
- Throughout USAREUR, to include forward deployed locations in support of Operation ATLANTIC RESOLVE, community outreach and marketing efforts use Army-funded materials as well as locally procured and developed materials.
- USFOR-A conducts training for multiple agencies and publishes a quarterly newsletter that outlines reporting options by category.
- ARNORTH has a SHARP portal providing assigned personnel with access to policy letters, SHARP personnel contact information, and sexual assault reporting processes.

- ARSOUTH encourages Soldiers to use the “We Care” mobile phone application that contains SHARP related information, including reporting options.
- In addition to mandatory training on the subject, literature in INSCOM unit areas describes restricted and unrestricted reporting and provides contact information for the 24/7 command emergency phone number, garrison hotline, and Safe Helpline.
- USACE opened four SHARP resource offices in FY18 to improve distribution of information to employees and their adult children on reporting procedures and victim rights.
- IMCOM reinforces reporting options during annual training, on installation web sites, with handouts at newcomer briefings, and through brochures, posters, and bulletin boards.

Retaliation Training

The Army incorporated retaliation training into SHARP annual refresher training and PME lessons to every Soldier in the Army. Training consists of a discussion of retaliation vignettes and information outlining key definitions, Army policy, and reporting options. The revised training also requires that a “check on learning” occur at the end of each session. The check on learning specifically addresses the topic of retaliation, reinforcing the importance of identifying retaliatory behaviors.

Actions by Army commands to address retaliation training include:

- AMC SHARP training incorporates retaliation training in SHARP newcomer’s briefings, supervisory/leadership training, annual training, and during monthly SARBs.
- USARPAC conducts retaliation training during the revised SHARP annual training and during pre-command courses.
- USARAF conducts retaliation training during newcomer briefings, commander/first sergeant courses, commander’s SHARP in-briefs, annual SHARP training, and SARC/VA training.
- INSCOM brigades incorporate retaliation training into monthly SHARP face-to-face training, battalion/company SHARP training, and quarterly commander/first sergeant courses.
- USACE instituted retaliation training into its annual SHARP training and bi-annual supervisor training.
- IMCOM uses face-to-face training to provide definitions and examples of retaliation along with vignettes to elicit conversation and checks on learning.

MSO/VSO, Federal Partner, and Congressional Outreach

Army external outreach efforts during FY18 included:

- The Army Public Affairs' MSO/VSO partnership coordinator ensures that MSOs/VSOs have the latest information when it comes to SHARP program and policy updates. This relationship helps ensure that VSOs/MSOs are not only aware of changes, but also are aware of how to respond to questions from Soldiers and veterans.

- The Army participates in the quarterly MSO/VSO roundtable. Members of the Army SHARP program office briefed leaders representing nearly 30 MSO/VSO organizations, providing information on the Army's annual report, and answering questions about the Army SHARP program. This open forum allowed Army SHARP personnel to amplify messages on SHARP to veterans and retirees.
- Members from the Army SHARP program office also met with personnel from the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) after USAID expressed interest in establishing a sexual assault prevention and response program.
- The Army participates in multi-Service working groups where participants share best practices and lessons learned. The Army coordinates with sister Services regarding expanded SHARP services to include reporting options for DoD civilians.
- Army SHARP program office personnel also provided information and briefed the DAC-IPAD, addressing expedited transfer data, policy, and procedures.
- The Army SHARP Academy briefed staff members of the House and Senate Armed Services Committees on the Army's development and use of the DS2A technology. Staff members also met with the Director of the Army SHARP program, SHARP professionals attending courses at the Academy, and installation SARCs and VAs.
- A congressional staff delegation traveled to Fort Leavenworth and Fort Leonard Wood to conduct a review of SHARP and USAMPS training programs. The delegation observed the rigor, breadth and complexity of the Army's SHARP program. The USAMPS visit was extremely beneficial in underscoring the difference between jurisdictions and services for SHARP, domestic violence, and child sexual assault incidents.

7. NDAA Requirements - Provide your Military Service's status on the NDAA Sections presented below. Answer each requirement directly and succinctly. Specify whether the provision has been implemented by indicating "yes" or "no." If the requirement has been implemented, provide the implementation date. If it has not been implemented, provide the projected implementation date. Lastly, provide a short explanation (150 words or less) of the action(s) taken. All items require a response.

7.1 FY 2014, SEC. 1701. Extension of Crime Victims' Rights to Victims of Offenses Under the Uniform Code of Military Justice

Is this requirement completed? Yes.

If yes, date completed: May 2016

7.2 FY 2017, SEC. 542. Effective Prosecution and Defense in Courts-Martial and Pilot Programs on Professional Military Justice Development for Judge Advocates

Is this requirement completed? No.

If no, date when the requirement is projected to be completed: FY22

Status update:

The Army established a skill identifier program for military justice and completed a review of that program in FY18. The Army implemented a pilot program for deliberate professional development for judge advocates to develop military justice expertise in FY18 at four installations. The Army will expand the pilot program to additional locations in FY19. Since section 542 requires that the duration of the pilot program be 5 years, the projected completion date for this action is FY22.

7.3 FY 2018, SEC. 535. Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Training for All Individuals Enlisted in the Armed Forces Under a Delayed Entry Program

Is this requirement completed? Yes.

If yes, date completed: February 2018

7.4 FY 2018, SEC. 536. Special Victims' Counsel Training Regarding the Unique Challenges Often Faced by Male Victims of Sexual Assault

Is this requirement completed? Yes.

If yes, date completed: January 2016

8. Analytics Discussion

8.1 Provide an analytic discussion of your Statistical Report of reported sexual assault cases from the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID). Required elements included on this template are information on Unrestricted Reports; Restricted Reports; service referrals for victims alleging sexual assault; and case synopses of completed investigations.

This section must briefly address each of the following:

- Notable changes in the data over time
- Insight or suspected reasons for noted changes, or lack of change, in data
- The application of insights from data analyses for programmatic planning, oversight, and/or research
- Total number of Sexual Assaults (Restricted Reports and Unrestricted Reports) over time (since FY 2008) (Metric #11)
- The number of sexual assault investigations completed by the MCIO in the FY and the corresponding mean and median investigation length. Case open date can be in any year, but the close date must be by the end of the FY (Military Justice Indicator #6)
- The number of subjects with victims who declined to participate in the military justice process (Metric #7)
- Command action for military subjects under DoD legal authority (to be captured using the most serious crime investigated, comparing penetration to contact crimes) (Military Justice Indicator #1)
- Sexual assault court-martial outcomes (to be captured using the most serious crime charged, comparing penetration to contact crimes) (Military Justice Indicator #2)
- Summary of referral data – Unrestricted and Restricted Reports - either referrals received from other sources or referrals made to other sources (e.g., medical/mental health, command, criminal investigation/security services, legal, civilian or VA authorities, etc.)
- Any other information relating to sexual assault case data

Sexual Assault Historical Reporting Data (Metric #11)

As displayed in figure 1, there were 2,576 unrestricted reports and 579 restricted reports of sexual assault in the Army during FY18. The total number of reports (restricted and unrestricted) increased nearly 17 percent from FY17. The number of Service members (SMs) making an unrestricted or restricted report also increased 18 percent from FY17. Combined with a slight decrease in the population of the Army from FY17 to FY18, the number of SMs making a report of sexual assault in FY18 equates to 5.5 reports per 1,000 active duty Soldiers, compared to 4.7 per 1,000 in FY17, 4.4 per 1,000 in FY16, and 4.2 per 1,000 in FY15.

The Army believes the increase in the rate of reports of sexual assault by SM victims (from 2.3 in FY12 to 5.5 in FY18) does not equate to an increase in actual assaults. Rather, the unprecedented priority placed on sexual assault prevention and response by Army leaders since FY12 has increasingly encouraged victims to come forward and report.

Reports of Sexual Assaults (Rate/1,000)	FY 2008	FY 2009	FY 2010	FY 2011	FY 2012	FY 2013	FY 2014	FY 2015	FY 2016	FY 2017	FY 2018

NOTE: Designated Army SARCs enter sexual assault case data into DSAID based on information received directly from victims, information provided by a VA and/or information from CID investigators. Subject and case disposition data populates DSAID from a system interface with ALERTS, and manual data entry by SARCs and HQDA OTJAG through the DSAID Legal Officer module.

Prevalence of Sexual Assault vs. Reporting (Metric #2)

The Army continues to make every effort to achieve its goal of a culture of dignity and respect that results in positive command climates in which sexual offenses are rare and victims feel safe in reporting, and free from intimidation and retaliation. Although trends in the Army indicate an increase in rates of reporting, sexual assault remains a very under-reported crime in the Army and throughout the United States. According to the 2016 Criminal Victimization report published in October 2018 by the Department of Justice Bureau of Justice Statistics, less than 25 percent of rape and sexual assault victims in the United States reported their incident to police, down from 33 percent in 2015.

Because sexual assault is so under reported, the Army must use survey data to estimate the magnitude (prevalence) of its sexual assault problem. Prevalence of sexual assault in the Army is an estimate of the number of Soldiers who identify, through survey questions, that they were victims of sexual assault during the previous year, while in the Army. The Army determines prevalence of sexual assault based on responses to the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey of Active Duty Members (WGRA), administered by DoD every 2 years. (DoD also conducts a survey of reserve component Soldiers every 2 years, alternating with the WGRA.) DoD conducted the most recent WGRA during 2018, inviting more than 240,000 Soldiers (including 83 percent of Army women and 47 percent of Army men) from private to colonel to take the survey. Results of the 2018 survey were pending at the time of this report.

Figure 2 depicts estimated prevalence data for FY10 and FY12 based on the percent of male and female Soldiers who said they experienced “unwanted sexual contact” in their responses to WGRA surveys. Figure 2 also depicts data derived from the 2014 RAND Corporation Military Workplace Study, which replicated the WGRA Surveys but also collected more detailed information, had more respondents, and higher response rates. For the FY16 WGRA, DoD replicated the FY14 RAND study. The FY16 data, combined with the increase in reports per 1,000 Soldiers, significantly narrowed the gap between prevalence and reporting. As a result, 38 percent of Soldiers who responded that they experienced "unwanted sexual contact" in the FY16 survey actually reported the incident (48 percent of female Soldiers and 20 percent of male Soldiers). This was a significant increase from the Army rate of 28 percent in FY14 and greater than the DoD average of 32 percent in FY16. Since closing the gap between prevalence and number of reports of sexual assault incidents is a stated goal of the Army, the FY16 data was encouraging.

Unrestricted Reports (Victim Information)

One demographic for Army sexual assaults that has remained consistent over the past few years is the rank of the vast majority of victims who make an unrestricted report. Eighty percent of Army victims in FY18 completed investigations were E1-E4, virtually unchanged since FY14. The percentage of Soldiers who make an unrestricted report that are 24 years or younger also has remained consistent. In FY18, 72 percent of victims in completed investigations were 24 years old or younger, unchanged from FY17 and only slightly greater than 70 percent in FY16.

After increasing from 17 percent in FY12 to a high of 26 percent in FY14, 22 percent of Service member victims making an unrestricted report of sexual assault in FY18 were male, compared to 23 percent in FY17, 25 percent in FY16, and 24 percent in FY15. Despite this slight decline since FY14, the Army continues to prioritize efforts to reduce the stigma of male victim reporting.

Figure 3 shows the breakout of victims (Service member and non-Service member) and each type of sexual assault offense for Army unrestricted reports in FY18. Excluding attempts, and cases where the offense code was not available, DSAID data shows the proportion of assaults reported as penetrative offenses (specifically rape, aggravated sexual assault/sexual assault, and forcible sodomy) was 45 percent in FY18 compared to 48 percent in FY17. This percentage has decreased significantly from 66 percent in FY11 and 55 percent in FY13. Although this recent trend may suggest penetrative offenses are now less prevalent than non-penetrative offenses, it may also suggest that Soldiers are increasingly reporting non-penetrative (“unwanted touching”) offenses as criminal behavior.

During FY18, 61 Soldiers made an unrestricted report for an incident occurring prior to joining the Army, compared to 50 in FY17, 44 in FY16, and 47 in FY15. (FY14=38; FY13=22; FY12=16.)

HRC processed 262 permanent change of station (PCS) expedited transfer requests in FY18. Seven requests were denied (3 victims were pending separation, 3 victims were subjects in separate criminal investigations, and 1 victim was pending a medical evaluation board). The CG, HRC made the final decision in the denials. (FY17=250 requests/6 denied; FY16=225/1; FY15=267 requests/1 denied.) In addition, Army commands reported 28 Soldiers requested expedited unit transfers to remain on their current installation. The commands approved all of these requests. (FY17=29 requests/0 denied; FY16=29/1 denied; FY15=21 requests /0 denied.)

Unchanged since FY16, 5 percent of victims in FY18 declined to participate in the military justice process (Metric #7), precluding any command action for subjects where evidence supported command action.

Service members receiving victim services for unrestricted reports continue to use military facilities more often than civilian facilities. In FY18, 97 percent of victim services occurred at military facilities, compared to 96 percent in FY17, 97 percent in FY16, and 95 percent in FY15. Overall, 65 percent of unrestricted reports in FY18 occurred on a military installation, compared to 62 percent in FY17, and 64 percent in FY16.

There were 201 SAFE exams conducted for victims of unrestricted reports in FY18 compared to 166 in FY17, 164 in FY16, and 174 in FY15.

Unrestricted Reports (Subject Information)

FY18 data regarding alleged offenders (subjects) continue to show trends similar to previous years. Identified alleged offenders were 95 percent male in FY18 compared to 96 percent in FY17, 95 percent in FY16, and 96 percent in FY15. The percentage of alleged offenders who were E1-E4 was 57 percent in FY18, compared to the 58 percent in FY17, 55 percent in FY16, and 54 percent in FY15. The percentage of subjects that were E5-E9 increased slightly to 35 percent in FY18, up from 33 percent in FY17, but still lower than 37 percent in both FY16 and FY15.

Given the correlation between age and rank, the percentage of subjects who are 24 years old or younger usually follows a trend similar to that of junior enlisted Soldiers. Although this age group has always been the largest category among all subjects, during FY18, 49 percent of known alleged offenders were 24 years old or younger, a decrease from 54 percent in FY17 and 50 percent in FY16, but higher than 44 percent in FY15, and 42 percent in FY14.

Figure 4 shows the breakout of subjects (alleged offenders) and each type of sexual assault investigation completed during FY18. Excluding attempts and cases where the offense code was not available, the proportion of FY18 cases with Service member subjects was 73 percent, compared to 75 percent in FY17, 76 percent in FY16, and 81 percent in FY15 (FY14=80 percent; FY13=81 percent; FY12=84 percent). However, 24 percent of alleged offenders in FY17 could not be identified compared to 21 percent in FY16 and FY17 (FY15=16 percent; FY14=15 percent).

Unrestricted Reports (Investigation Information)

The previous discussion of the unrestricted reports represent sexual assaults reported during FY18 in which either the victim or alleged offender was a Service member, neither was a juvenile, and the subject and victim are not each other’s spouse, former spouse, or intimate partner. While other jurisdictions may dispose of reports of sexual assault before opening an investigation, the Army formally investigates every allegation as a sexual assault. Although this practice may ostensibly contribute to a higher number of cases, and a higher number of allegations in which there was insufficient evidence to prove legally the elements of a sexual assault, it demonstrates the Army's commitment to investigate all unrestricted reports of sexual assault thoroughly and transparently.

The average completion time (Military Justice Indicator #6) for sexual assault investigations completed by CID during FY18 was 150 days (median=115), compared to 146 days (median=112 days) in FY17, 145 days (median=110) in FY16, and 127 days (median=104) in FY15. Each case is unique and the amount of time to complete an investigation is dependent on several factors, including type of complaint, delays in reporting, amount of physical evidence, and cooperation of witnesses. The high number of cases reported to CID affects the timeliness of completing investigations. As a result, 884 of the 2,237 investigations initiated during FY18 were pending completion at the end of the fiscal year.

Unrestricted Reports (Disposition Information)

In the Army, a commander is not limited to a single disposition choice and may use more than one disciplinary tool, including judicial, non-judicial, and administrative to address fully an allegation. The disposition of any offense depends on the unique facts and circumstances of the allegation. Commanders, upon the advice of judge advocates, must use independent judgment to determine the appropriate level of disposition.

The Army withholds the authority to dispose of a "penetrative" offense (an allegation of rape, sexual assault, or forcible sodomy) to the special court-martial convening authority at the colonel (O6) level, with a servicing legal advisor. The Army also withholds the authority to dispose of a "non-penetrative" offense (an allegation of aggravated sexual contact or abusive sexual contact) to a lieutenant colonel (O5) who also receives advice from a legal advisor.

Although the format of this report requires the Army to place each allegation into a single disposition category, the following explanations reflect that several disposition categories may be appropriate for a single allegation.

Using the data produced by DSAID, there were 1,403 allegations of sexual assault, ranging from rape to indecent assault ready for disposition (Military Justice Indicator #1 and Military Justice Indicator #2) decisions in FY18. (This includes allegations from cases opened in previous years completed in FY18.) Of these 1,403 allegations:

- 379 allegations were disposed of through the preferral of court-martial charges.
- 71 allegations were disposed of through an involuntary, adverse administrative discharge of the subject.
- 155 allegations were disposed of through non-judicial punishment, including 48 that also resulted in an administrative discharge. The vast majority of these involved an unwanted touch over the clothing (non-penetrative).
- 93 allegations were disposed of through other adverse administrative actions.

- 259 allegations provided probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. In each of these allegations, there was insufficient evidence to prosecute the founded sexual assault offense. Subsequently, commanders took punitive action for a non-sexual assault offense, such as adultery, fraternization, or indecent acts. In 27 of these cases, court-martial charges were preferred. In 54 of these cases, the Army administratively discharged the subject for the non-sexual assault offense. In 137 of these cases, the subject received non-judicial punishment and in 41 cases, the subject received other adverse administrative actions.

- 64 allegations were complicated by the refusal of the victim to cooperate in a military justice action (Metric #7). Without the cooperation of the victim in these cases, the Army was unable to take any punitive actions against the subject.

- 23 allegations involved an expired statute of limitations.

- 359 allegations had insufficient evidence of any offense. Although allegations made against the offender met the lower standard for titling in a criminal investigation, there was insufficient evidence to proceed with a military justice action.

Disposition data trends (illustrated in figure 5) continue to reflect a healthy judicial system, in which commanders employ the wide spectrum of disciplinary tools available to address misconduct from an unwanted touch over the clothing to a forcible rape.

In addition to the 1,403 allegations, there were 530 allegations that could not be disposed of by the Army:

- 472 allegations involved an unknown subject.
- 3 allegations involved a subject who was deceased or had deserted.

- 29 allegations were disposed of by a civilian or foreign authority, because the accused was not subject to the jurisdiction of the military.
- 26 allegations were disposed of by a civilian or foreign authority although the accused was subject to Army jurisdiction. In these cases, all of which occurred outside the limits of a military installation, the civilian authority served as the primary investigative agency and determined the allegation merited charges.

The average length of time from the date a sexual assault was reported to the date a court-martial outcome (Military Justice Indicator #3) was imposed during FY18 was 73 days (median=62), down significantly from the FY17 average of 151 days (median=78) and the FY16 average of 198 days (median=179). The average length of time from the date a sexual assault was reported the date an non-judicial punishment (NJP) concluded (Military Justice Indicator #4) was 61 days (median=60) in FY18, compared to 83 days (median=63) in FY17, 77 days (median=52) in FY16, and 107 days (median=102) in FY15.

Finally, Army dispositions include cases in which the military justice process addressed allegations of sexual assault involving Soldiers, when a civilian or foreign justice process did not fully address the alleged misconduct. These actions illustrate Army commanders' interests in accountability given some of the challenges facing civilian jurisdictions, especially when prosecuting alcohol-facilitated sexual assaults.

Restricted Reports

During FY18, the Army also recorded 741 restricted reports, of which 162 later converted to unrestricted, leaving 579 reports that remained restricted (FY17=692-164; FY16=620-119; FY15=586-116; FY14=509-102).

Victims filing restricted reports in FY18 were 24 years old or younger at a similar percentage to victims filing unrestricted reports. Specifically, 74 percent of restricted report victims were 24 years old or younger in FY18 (compared to 69 percent in FY17, 70 percent in FY16, and 66 percent in FY14 and FY15), compared to 72 percent for FY18 unrestricted reports (FY17=72 percent; FY16=70 percent; FY15=69 percent; FY14=68 percent).

During FY18, 95 percent of Service members receiving victim services related to restricted reports of sexual assault did so in military facilities, compared to 94 percent in FY17, 95 percent in FY16, 93 percent in FY15, and 97 percent in FY14. These services included 60 SAFE exams for FY18 restricted reports, compared to 58 SAFE exams for FY17 restricted reports (FY16=58; FY15=40; FY14=38).

Most (77 percent) services provided to non-Service member victims in FY18 occurred in military resources, unchanged from FY17 and compared to 82 percent in FY16, 85 percent in FY15, and 84 percent in FY14. These services included 51 SAFE exams for non-military victims (19 restricted and 32 unrestricted reports) compared to 48 in FY17, 36 in FY16, 31 in FY15, and 33 in FY14.

There were some notable contrasts between restricted and unrestricted reports:

- Only 38 percent of restricted reports were for alleged assaults that reportedly occurred on a military installation (FY17=52 percent; FY16= 50 percent; FY15=44 percent; FY14=47 percent), compared to 65 percent for unrestricted reports (FY17=62 percent; FY16=64 percent, FY15=63 percent; FY14=65 percent).

- During FY18, 26 percent of restricted reports (for which data was available) were reported more than a year after the incident (FY17=27 percent; FY16=32 percent; FY15=27 percent; FY14=29 percent), compared to only 15 percent of unrestricted reports (FY17=15 percent; FY16=16 percent; FY15=17 percent; FY14=17 percent) made by Service member victims.

- Victims who reported a sexual assault in FY18 that occurred prior to their military service were more likely to do so with a restricted report. Of the 141 reported in FY18 (FY17=112; FY16=132; FY15=148; FY14=81), 80 were restricted reports (FY17=62; FY16=88; FY15=101; FY14=43).

8.2 Complete the following table with your numbers as of the end of the fiscal year. Use the job/duty descriptions provided and the following inclusion criteria:

- Include all Reserve and Active Duty military personnel. Army and Air Force do not need to include their respective National Guard component information as it will be included in the National Guard Bureau’s response.
- Include civilian and contractor personnel, as applicable
- Only include filled positions
- Indicate the number of full-time and part-time personnel
- Provide the exact number of current personnel, whenever possible. If the number is an estimate, please indicate how the estimate was reached and any other relevant information.
